

SACRAMENTO STATE

Department of Physics & Astronomy Fall 2007

Physics Colloquium Series

"Carbon and Metals: A Path to the Discovery of Single-wall Carbon Nanotubes"

Carbon nanotubes are beginning to find applications in new materials, electronics, displays, and other areas. I will describe how experiments looking for carbon species in space led to the discovery of fullerenes, metallofullerenes, and ultimately, single-wall carbon nanotubes.

Donald S. Bethune

IBM Almaden Research Center

Thursday, November 15, 2007

4:00-5:20 PM MND 1015

Open & Free to all Students, Faculty & Public