JUSTIFICATION:

In the past, this course was offered under MGMT 196. Before the College of Business reorganized, operations management students were housed in the Department of Management and enrolled in MGMT 196 for an experimental offering in the operations management area. After the reorganization, course designations were changed to reflect concentration, and not department. Therefore, this course needs to be added for students who are concentrating in operations management.

NEW COURSE DESCRIPTION: (Not to exceed 80 words, and language should conform to catalog copy. See <http://www.csus.edu/acaft/univmanual/crspsl.htm> - Guidelines for Catalog Course Description)

OPM 196. Experimental Offerings in Operations Management. For advanced students who wish to investigate operations management problems in specialized areas. Application of research methods; selection and statement of a problem; collection and analysis of relevant data. 3 units
