Briefly describe the program proposal (new or change) and provide a justification.

The Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC) has asked that universities stop offering the "Cross-Cultural Academic Development (CLAD) Certificate Program" by the end of fall 2007, and instead offer the "California Teachers of English Learners (CTEL) Certificate Program." BMED's proposal is to change the name of its certificate program for K-12 teachers working with English Learners, formerly called the "CLAD Certificate Program," to its new title, the "CTEL Certificate Program." The change in program title will align BMED's certificate program with CCTC requirements regarding authorization for teachers to serve English Learners. There are no changes to the list of courses that comprise the certificate program.

Approvals:
