In 1972, Sacramento State was the second place in national ranks nationally as a top performing college. It may be easy to think about the university and the buildings, but it’s hard to imagine what it’s like to be a part of this dynamic community. Although Sacramento State is a large, diverse campus of around 30,000 students, we pride ourselves on having a small college atmosphere. We work hard to make students feel valued, well-supported, and interested in the campus community. It may be easy for any student who chooses not to get the help they need.

Sacramento State is an environment that values learning both inside and outside the classroom, performing well academically, being healthy, finding ways to connect with the University community, and ultimately developing and preparing for a fulfilling career. We encourage you to come visit us on campus, learn more about our academic and student programs, and what’s happening here at our dynamic campus.
