Visual Identity Architecture

The identity architecture is a framework that organizes the University’s many identities into defined categories for the application of the identity style guidelines. Categories are based on strategic and visual connections to the University.

<td>Visual representation of units supporting the University’s core function, serving targeted audience segments. Uses integrated University logos/logotypes and follows University identity style guide.</td>
<td>Represents a complete visual departure from the University. Uses an independent logo and its own identity standards.</td>

Identity Style Guide | Visual Identity Architecture 3
Where Do You Fit? Presenting Your University Identity

Core identity and identity extension units should adhere to the standards established in the identity style guide. Sub-identities have their own style guides, and independent identities are not visually connected to the University.

Non-Standard Identity Presentations

Some groups do not fit clearly within the University identity architecture. Some student clubs, sponsorships and customizable third-party web applications are among a few, their identity requirements are summarized here.

STUDENTS
Most student groups are restricted from using University logos/logotypes and graphic elements, such as the double S, in their club names or on promotional materials. They may attach the University name or nickname as an “at Sacramento State” or “at Sac State,” but they may not include the University name as part of the club name. For example, “Sacramento State Student Club” or “Sac State’s Student Club” are not allowed. These guidelines apply to informal student clubs and groups, as well as those sanctioned by Student Organizations and Leadership.

Student groups with exception to this rule include faculty sponsored academic clubs (e.g. debate club) and Sport Clubs. The Sport Clubs have and monitor their own set of identity guidelines, and faculty advisors assume responsibility for the use of University logos/logotypes and graphic elements used by academic clubs.

SPONSORSHIPS
Anytime a logo is needed to indicate Sacramento State’s support or sponsorship of an event, the vertical or horizontal primary logo with no tagline should be provided. If more than one unit is sponsoring an event, the primary logo should be used with the sponsoring departments identified in text.

THIRD-PARTY WEB APPLICATIONS
Some third-party web applications allow for some range of visual customization. The core identity primary vertical or horizontal logo with no tagline should be used whenever possible. If additional color customization of the page is an option, Sac State green should be applied.
