

Photo/Hornet Bookstore

BOOKS ABOUND – The start of a new semester means busy days at the Hornet Bookstore. The store’s popular online book-ordering option allows students to have their books waiting for them when they arrive on campus.

Book delves into political life of RFK

Featuring details from never-before-seen documents, history professor Joseph Palermo’s new book In His Own Right: The Political Odyssey of Senator Robert F. Kennedy begins with the assassination of John F. Kennedy and traces Robert F. Kennedy’s political career from his 1964 election to the Senate through his presidential campaign, and ends with his assassination in 1968.

It is both a political biography and a story about the social struggles of the 1960s. Palermo casts Kennedy center stage, shaped by the times and shaping the agenda of the progressive, peace-minded wing of the Democratic Party.

“Robert Kennedy was a Democrat who could express liberal, progressive ideals as few politicians can do today,” Palermo says.

Palermo spent years poring over every Kennedy speech from 1965 on. He also went through letters between Kennedy and supporters of the most influential political players of the time – Martin Luther King Jr., Cesar Chavez, Benjamin Spock, Eugene McCarthy. The book includes extensive excerpts of both.

Contrary to the generally accepted view that Kennedy turned from hawk to dove simply to run for president, Palermo found that he opposed escalation in Vietnam early on. Kennedy gave strong speeches opposing the increase in troops in 1965, far ahead of most politicians. And he said sending U.S. troops to Vietnam in the first place – a decision he participated in – had been a mistake.

In the end, Palermo says, the book is also about the start of a decline in the Democratic Party. The party ended the 1960s deeply divided over war and race. And three promising leaders who might have brought it together and inspired future leaders – John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. – had all been assassinated.

— Frank Whitlatch

Symposium looks at global business

Matching CSUS’ unique position as California’s Capital University with an interdisciplinary approach to worldwide economic issues, the College of Business Administration will host a day-long Global Business Education Symposium on Tuesday, Feb. 11, in the University Union.

“We’re looking at this as a cooperative effort to bring important elements together on our campus,” said Mike Lee, chair of the management department and one of the organizers of the symposium.

With the theme of “Government in the Global Economy,” the event will feature Lon Hatamiya, secretary of the California Technology, Trade and Commerce

Agency, as its keynote speaker, along with a provocative panel discussion by regional trade officials and government representatives on “California’s Economy in the Global Market Place: Is Government Doing the Right Things?”

The symposium also offers seven professor-led afternoon workshops and targets educators, students, businesspeople and policymakers—anyone with an interest in the Sacramento region’s connection to the global economy.

“We are the Capital University, we have access to the state government and the agencies important in promoting international trade,” Lee said. “This event will bring us closer to those players and will allow the University to showcase its expertise as well as bring those state resources onto campus.”

The panel on government’s role in global trade will be moderated by Lee and includes Barbara Hayes, executive director of Sacramento Area Commerce and Trade Organization (SACTO); Brooks D. Ohlson, executive director of the Northern California World Trade Center; and Keith Bovetti and Patricia Garamendi, assistant secretaries in the international trade and investment division of the California Technology, Trade and Commerce Agency.

See SYMPOSIUM, Page 2

Tutoring program boosts reading skills

Children in Sacramento-area schools are seeing impressive increases in their reading ability, thanks to the tutoring efforts of CSUS students.

At no cost to schools, the CSUS READERS program provides about 80 trained tutors to conduct one-on-one sessions with children having difficulties with reading. The children receive two 90-minute sessions two times a week.

Nearly every child in the program has experienced at least a half-year gain in reading level. In some cases the results are even more dramatic – one student who was not yet reading at first grade level was above third grade level after only a semester.

“The reading programs work,” says teacher education professor Noreen Kellough, who runs the program with fellow professor Pamela O’Kane.

While other programs are available for a fee, the READERS program, which stands for Reaching Excellence After Developing Effective Reading Skills, is free to the schools. Three school districts – North Sacramento, Folsom-Cordova and Sacramento City – participate in the tutoring service with 15-20 tutors at each school.

The early intervention program works with first to third grade-level students. These students are at a high risk for dropping out later on, Kellough says, “We don’t want to wait until fourth or fifth grade. By then, they’ve given up. We want them to become independent readers.”

Students are pre- and post-tested in reading ability. “If they need it, they can stay on for a second semester. But we want to see progress, so they usually don’t stay for more than a year,” Kellough says. “We’re not trying to do the job of specialists. We want to catch the ones who are falling through the cracks.”

The tutoring is part of EDTE 103: Tutoring Children in Reading, a service-learning course the CSUS students take for credit. Some also receive a $1,000 education award. Tutors spend four weeks in on-campus training before going out to schools and they must pass a competency test. The tutors also attend presentations, prepare lesson plans for each tutoring session and track their students’ progress. Each tutor is responsible for two children.

Most of the tutors are future teachers, but the course also attracts students from other disciplines such as criminal justice and psychology.

Kellough says the kids are thrilled to have tutors and they bond with them. The tutors are often surprised at how attached they become to the kids. Often they return for another semester.

The program has a good enough reputation that several former students currently work as paid interns in the classroom. There is also a waiting list of schools requesting tutors.

— Laurie Hall

State budget deficit impacts campus

On Jan. 10, Gov. Gray Davis released his 2003-04 budget proposal to close the state’s estimated $34.6 billion deficit. In addition to some $43 million in reductions that the CSU system will undertake in the current fiscal year, an additional mid-year budget reduction of $59.6 million was mandated.

Increases in health care costs, as well as unfunded increases in compensation costs have added another unfunded $22.8 million, leading to a total reduction of $125.4 million in the current fiscal year.

The CSU system has already addressed the initial budget reduction of $43 million and $62 million has been identified from reductions at each campus. The remaining $20 million will come from the increased State University fee enacted by the Board of Trustees.

The budget proposal for next year also will reduce the CSU support budget by another $326 million, leaving unfunded an additional $78.6 million in

See BUDGET, Page 2

professional activities

The CSUS Bulletin welcomes submissions to the Professional Activities Section from faculty, administration and staff. Items are run on a space available basis. They should be no longer than 75 words and may be submitted to bulletin@csus.edu or faxed to 278-5290.

scholarship

ALLAN DARRAH and JAY CRAIN, anthropology, and Linus Digm' of University of Papua New Guinea have written a chapter titled "The Trobriand Islands" for the forthcoming Encyclopedia of Medical Anthropology, to be published by the Human Relations Files and Yale University Press. Crain recently served on the three-person national selection committee for the Fulbright Awards for Southeast Asia. This was his third year on the committee.

DEEPAK CHHABRA, recreation and leisure studies, had an article titled "Staged Authenticity and Heritage Tourism" accepted for publication by the Annals of Tourism Research. Chhabra will be presenting a paper on "Economic Impact Issues Related to Short-term Events," in March at the International Festivals Events Association Conference in Vienna, Austria.

BRENNAN MURPHY, theatre and dance, completed certification in Fitzmaurice Voicework in New York in summer 2002. Fitzmaurice Voicework is an internationally recognized speech and voice technique used in both actor and executive speech training. He is now working toward becoming a master teacher in the technique.

ANDREW LUCHANSKY, music, performed in December as principal cellist with the San Francisco Chamber Orchestra in concerts in Palo Alto, Berkeley and San Francisco. The CSUS String Project, which he founded and directs, is currently providing more than 100 mostly underprivileged Sacramento area children with violin, viola or cello lessons taught by CSUS music majors. The string project was the subject of recent feature articles in the Sacramento Bee on Dec 13 and the September issue of Sacramento Magazine.

BILL OWEN, communication studies, has won first place in the John Crook Memorial contest for best unpublished senryu poetry sponsored by the journal haijinx. He was elected president of the Central Valley Haiku Club. He also has been selected as a featured poet at the Haiku Poets of Northern California annual "Two Autumns" reading in August and commemorative book.

VICKI PEARSON-ROUNDS, research and sponsored projects, JAY CRAIN, anthropology, and Ricky Ganang of Sabah Forest Industries were recently featured in two articles published in the Daily Express in Sabah, Malaysia about their comprehensive English-Lundayeh dictionary.

FRANCIS YUEN, social work, had his new book, Family Health Social Work Practice: A Knowledge and Skills Casebook, published by Haworth Press last month. DOMAN LUM, social work, joined Yuen in co-authoring a chapter for the book on "Family Health Practice with the Spiritually Diverse Person."

DUANE CAMPBELL, bilingual/multicultural education, has published an article titled "Racism and the Crisis of Urban Education" in the winter 2002 edition of the journal Democratic Left. In the same issue, graduate student WENDY GONZALEZ published "Dolores and Me: On the March with the UFW."

grants

TIM HORNER, geology, was recently awarded a grant for $98,000 to study gravel quality and salmon habitat on the lower American River. The one-year project is a cooperative effort with the Bureau of Reclamation and California Department of Fish and Game, and will also provide support for graduate and undergraduate students.

News services wants your news

The news services office shares the University's story with the media, the public and the campus. The office depends on the campus community to submit information about projects, studies, events, accomplishments, etc.

There are many ways to share news about campus projects, research, events and more. To contact news services, call 278-6156, email infodesk@csus.edu or use the news submission form at www.csus.edu/news/sendnews.html.

News services products and services:

- The Capital University Journal is the CSUS magazine, published twice each year for alumni and other friends of the University. Stories are compiled from news releases, Bulletin stories and other tips received by public affairs.
 - Capital University News is the CSUS news website. It features media resources, current campus news and events, and much more. It can be found at www.csus.edu/news.
 - The CSUS Bulletin is the University's newsletter for faculty and staff, published weekly during the academic year. To submit items to the bulletin, email bulletin@csus.edu or use the submission form at www.csus.edu/news/sendnews.html.
 - The electronic marquees over the information booths on the north and south entrances to campus feature information of broad interest. To suggest a topic or for more information, call public affairs at 278-6156 or e-mail infodesk@csus.edu.
 - The e-mail news service provides current news about CSUS to reporters and others. Subscribers can choose from news releases, event information, sports news or all news. To subscribe to the e-mail news service go to www.csus.edu/news/getnews.html.
 - The events calendar features a comprehensive listing of public events on campus. It appears on the Web and in the CSUS Bulletin. It is also sent to local media outlets each month. To submit items for the campus calendar. www.csus.edu/news/sendnews.html or call 278-6156.
 - News releases are how campus news is sent to the media and, increasingly, to interested members of the public. Topics range from campus events to research projects and significant campus developments. All releases are also sent to e-mail news service subscribers.
 - Newslink is a monthly e-mail newsletter featuring information for alumni, as well as campus news, events and sports highlights. To subscribe to Newslink visit www.csus.edu/news/getnews.html.
- For more information, call 278-6156.

CSUS bulletin

Volume 9, Number 19

The Office of University Affairs
California State University,
Sacramento
6000 J Street
Sacramento, CA 95819-6026

Vice President, University Affairs
Robert G. Jones

Associate Vice President,
Public Affairs
Ann Reed

Writers
Laurie Hall
Heather Robinson
Frank Whitlatch

Contributing Writers
Terry Filipowicz
Tim Wright

Director of Publications
Geri Welch

Design
Anita Carney

TO SUBMIT MATERIAL FOR PUBLICATION:

The CSUS Bulletin is published on Mondays of the academic year. Campus news may be submitted by e-mail to bulletin@csus.edu or may be delivered on disk or paper to Public Affairs, Sacramento Hall Room 215, campus mail code 6026. Deadline for all materials is 10 a.m. on the Wednesday before publication. Items will be published on a space available basis and are subject to editing. Writing should be in news style, short and direct. For inquiries call (916) 278-6156.

Symposium

Continued from page 1

The featured workshops include:

- "Digital Divide in Our Own Backyard: The Role of the State Government" led by human resources management professor Laura Riulli and management information science professor Leonardo Legorreta.
- "Focusing on Southeast Asia as Part of a Global Business Education Initiative" led by economics professor emeritus Robert Curry.
- "Cluster and Competitiveness: Assessing the Greater Sacramento Area from a Global Perspective" led by strategic management professors Stanley Han and Seung Bai Bach.
- "Are Japanese Consumers 'Allergic' to U.S. Rice?" led by international business professor Ken Chinen.
- "The Role of Synchronous (Streaming Video) Education/ Training/Communication in Developing and Maintaining California's International Commerce" led by accountancy professor Kent Meyer.
- "Russian Financial System and Trade" led by finance professor Peter Sharp and government professor Buzz Fozouni.

- "Trade and the Legislature: Prospects and Possibilities for the 2003-04 Legislative Session" led by Tim Hodson, professor and director of the Center for California Studies.

The symposium comes a week after the College of Business Administration's Melvin and Audrey Shore Endowed Lecture Series panel featuring representatives from five nations talking about the "The Global Environment in Sacramento." The Shore lecture is noon - 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 4, in the University Union's Hinde Auditorium.

The Global Business Education Symposium is free and open to the public. Complete information, including a schedule of events, descriptions of each workshop and registration, is available online at www.csus.edu/mgmt/gbes. Early registration is encouraged—but attendees may register the day of the event. For more information and registration, contact Ken Chinen at 278-6882 or at chinenk@csus.edu.

— Tim Wright

Affordable counseling available

The Center for Counseling and Diagnostic Services is once again accepting clients from the community for its counseling and diagnostic testing services.

Advanced graduate students staff the center and provide assistance with personal issues, relationship and marital issues, children and family issues, career issues, and career challenges related to disabilities. They also administer diagnostic testing for learning disabilities and the gifted and talented program (GATE), for which full reports are provided.

The students work under the immediate supervision of experienced faculty members.

Fees are $65 per semester for counseling, $100 for learning diagnostics and $65 for gifted and talented testing. As many as 14 counseling sessions are offered for the small, once-per-semester fee. Unused sessions can be rolled over to the next semester.

More information is available by contacting the center at (916) 278-6252.

Budget

Continued from page 1

mandatory costs, and will make permanent the $43 million reduction imposed in the 2002-03 year.

In the proposal, student access will be provided through $105.8 million to fund a 5 percent student enrollment increase and a $45 million increase is provided to partially fund additional FTE enrolled at the CSU in the current year. Support for student financial aid programs will be acquired through a part of the State University fee.

Given current information on the 2003-04 budget year, the overwhelming proportion of the CSUS budget is expected to be spent on salaries and benefits for faculty and staff. The campus intends to conclude the 2002-03 academic year without the need for layoffs or significant modification of the class schedule.

The goal for next year is to avoid layoffs of permanent faculty and staff and to provide a class schedule and support services to meet the needs of enrolled students.

At this time hiring for all tenured faculty positions will continue with the intention of filling as many announced vacancies as possible.

Teens talk security, liberty with leaders

California Attorney General Bill Lockyer and other state leaders will meet with high school students at the State Capitol for a town hall meeting on security and civil liberties on Tuesday, Feb. 6.

The event – from 1 to 2 p.m. in the State Capitol room 4202 – is sponsored by the CSUS LegiSchool Project.

It will allow students to share their opinions on various state and federal safety measures put in place since the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11. The discussion will focus on how strict airport security, armed security in public, new laws and other efforts have affected civil liberties.

In addition to Lockyer, the panel will include state Sen. Debra Bowen (D-Redondo Beach) and Assemblymembers Ray Haynes (R-Riverside) and Sharon Runner (R-Lancaster).

Students from El Camino High and Hiram Johnson High in Sacramento, North Hollywood High, Salisbury High in Red Bluff, and Castro Valley High will attend the meeting. Thousands of other students in California will view the meeting live on the California Channel or on videotape.

Paula Gardner, a professor from the CSUS College of Education, will moderate the meeting.

The LegiSchool Project is an award-winning civic education effort of CSUS and the State Legislature, administered by the Center for California Studies. More information is available at 278-6906

Forecast: Woes hamper local economy

December marked the seventh straight month of negative job growth for the Capital Region, with state budget troubles and possible tax increases dimming prospects for a quick turnaround, according to the quarterly CSUS Forecast by the California Institute for County Government.

The report also said the local economy is hurting from uncertainty about the national economy and the possibility of military action in the Middle East.

Forecasters expect negative job growth to continue through the summer, with positive job growth returning late in the year.

The Capital Region's employment growth was -0.45 percent in December. By comparison, the state recorded -0.14 job growth and the nation -0.09.

Although government employers in the region continued to show positive job growth, the rate slowed to 1.1 percent. Forecasters expect the government sector rate to be negative soon because of state budget cuts.

The outlook in the manufacturing and construction sectors is a bit more positive. Manufacturing is still negative but continuing to improve. And construction, which had negative job growth in mid-2002, showed positive job growth again.

The quarterly CSUS Forecast of the region's job outlook uses an econometric model of the six-county Capital Region with more than two dozen variables. It was developed by the California Institute for County Government with support from the CSUS Regional Development Initiative. CSUS economics professor Suzanne O'Keefe and Robert Fountain, special assistant for regional development at CSUS, served as project advisors. Shawn Blosser of Databasix provided assistance with model development and programming.

More information is available by visiting the California Institute for County Government's website at www.cicg.org.

news digest

■ CRIME STATS

In compliance with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, CSUS has made crime statistics available online at www.csus.edu/police/cleryact.htm.

It includes reported crimes that occurred on campus, in certain off-campus buildings or property owned or controlled by CSUS, and on public property within, or immediately adjacent to and accessible from the campus, during the last three years. The report also includes institutional policies concerning campus security, alcohol and drug use, crime prevention, the reporting of crimes, sexual assault and other safety matters.

Print copies are available in the library, and by request from public safety or student affairs.

■ CATASTROPHIC LEAVE

Catastrophic leave has been approved for Bronwyn Hoffpauir, university affairs; Sandra Loreto, admissions and records; and Edna Chiu, facilities management.

CSUS employees may voluntarily donate to other employees up to 16 hours of vacation and sick leave credits each fiscal year in one-hour increments. CSEA, MPP and Confidential employees may donate up to 40 hours per fiscal year. Unit 4 employees may donate up to 32 hours per fiscal year. According to the CSEA MOU, only donated vacation leave credits may be used for family care catastrophic leave (Hoffpauir's and Loreto's situation).

Donation forms are available in the benefits office in Sacramento Hall 259

Details: 278-6213.

■ SEEKING SCHOLARS

The McNair Scholars Program is seeking students who intend to pursue master's and doctoral degrees, as well as faculty interested in mentoring them.

The federally funded program offers low-income, first-generation and underrepresented students support in reaching their graduate degree goals. Its services to students in the program include training in research, seminars and workshops on the GRE, connections with faculty mentors, travel to research conferences and doctoral institutions, and assistance with graduate school applications.

Eligible students must have at least a 3.0 GPA.

Details: 278-5118 or www.csus.edu/mcnair.

■ TRIATHLON SATURDAYS

The CSUS triathlon team is hosting a series of Saturday competitions to help pay for the team's trip to national competition this May.

Each of the "2nd Saturday Sprint Triathlons" includes a 500-yard swim in the CSUS pool, and a 13-mile bike and three-mile run on the American River. Events will be held Feb. 8, March 8 and April 12.

Registration will be 7:30 a.m. the day of the event at the CSUS pool. Cost is $10 for students and $15 non-students.

Details: 635-0347 or www.csus.edu/rec.

■ RENAISSANCE RENDEZVOUS

The Renaissance Society will hold an orientation and enrollment event for members and interested seniors at 1 p.m., Friday, Feb. 7 in the University Union Redwood Room.

The "Renaissance Rendezvous" will feature presentations by seminar coordinators and a question-and-answer period. Refreshments will be provided.

The Renaissance Society is a learning-in-retirement organization sponsored by the University. It holds seminars on- and off-campus, with the first one this semester scheduled for Friday, Feb. 14.

Details: 278-7834 or www.csus.edu/org/rensoc.

■ DATABASES AND WEB SEARCHES

The University Library will be holding a number of two-hour classes on using library databases and on various Internet search strategies. All sessions will be held in library 2024.

The database classes will be:

- 10 a.m., Feb. 19
- 7 p.m., Feb. 24
- 9 a.m., March 4
- 10 a.m., March 14
- 2 p.m., March 20
- 10 a.m., March 24
- 7 p.m., April 2
- 10 a.m., April 8
- 3 p.m., April 21
- 11 a.m., May 2

The Internet search engine classes will be:

- 1 p.m., Feb. 21
- 10 a.m., Feb. 27
- 1 p.m., March 6
- 7 p.m., March 10
- 9 a.m., March 18
- 3 p.m., March 26
- 1 p.m., April 3
- 1 p.m., April 11
- 7 p.m., April 23
- 9 a.m., April 30

The workshops are open to the campus community. No registration is required.

Additional workshops are available for groups of five or more.

Details: Linda Goff at 278-5981 or ljgoff@csus.edu.

25-year profile

To a certain degree, Gene Lozano, disability management counselor with services to students with disabilities, owes his 26 years at CSUS to his student activism as an undergraduate at San Francisco State University.

"At the time that I went to college in the 1970s, there was nothing like this office," Lozano said. Had there been, he might have found it helpful: Lozano lost his eyesight to glaucoma while he was in high school.

As a student, he worked on the campaign to set up student services offices for the disabled on each of the California State University campuses. The experience motivated him and pointed him down a path that would lead to CSUS.

"As an undergraduate and a student advocate, I knew that's what I really wanted to do," he said. "As the years go by I know I made the right decision."

After earning his degree in psychology at San Francisco State, Lozano went to San Diego State University for a master's degree in rehabilitation counseling. With degree in hand he was hired as a counselor at CSUS.

"My exposure to Sacramento was coming here for the State Fair," the San Francisco native said. "My whole image of Sacramento was hot and dry." It was neither when he arrived for his first day of work in the rain in Dec. 13, 1976. He also quickly found out that Sacramento in the 1970s had few of the social amenities of the City by the Bay. Lozano recalls the answer he got when he asked a co-worker what someone did for fun in Sacramento.

"He said there were three

GENE LOZANO

things: 'Go to San Francisco, go to Lake Tahoe.' So I asked him what the third thing was. 'Have a picnic,'" Lozano said. But the more time he spent in Sacramento, the more it grew on him. And Lozano literally put down roots in the area by designing and overseeing the construction of his own home. He finds that he enjoys gardening around his home, turning the heavy local mud into rich soil and landscaping the yard—with significant input from his wife. He said that it is rewarding when things grow and bloom.

He draws a similar connection to the students he works with. His task is to ensure that they have an equal opportunity to achieve at CSUS, providing services and, sometimes, intervention that allows them to compete with other students on a level playing field.

"Maybe, a few years later, they come back and you go 'Wow, they have done well,'" he said. "You don't take credit for what they've done—it's their accomplishment—but you played some role in seeing that they got there."

All events are free unless otherwise noted. For a complete events calendar click on www.csus.edu/events.

ongoing

“Post Flesh, Visualizing the Techno-Self,” art exhibit, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m., Tuesdays - Saturdays, University Library Gallery. (916) 278-4189. Continues to March 21.

Art exhibit, Gustavo Reynoso, 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m., University Union Gallery. (916) 278-6744. Exhibit continues to Feb. 21. Reception 6 - 8 p.m., Feb. 6.

monday, feb. 3

Men’s Tennis vs. Portland State, TBA, Rio Del Oro Raquet Club. (916) 278-6481.

Poetry Reading, Don Schofield, 7 p.m., Library Gallery. (916) 278-5989.

Opening Reception, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union Ballroom. (916) 278-6101.

tuesday, feb. 4

Baseball vs. Pacific, 2 p.m., Hornet Field. Tickets $5 adult/$4 seniors and non-CSUS students/$2 children ages 6-12/CSUS students with ID and children under 5 free. Tickets at the event. Season tickets available at (916) 278-4590.

“The Global Environment in Sacramento,” representatives from five nations discuss international trade, Melvin and Audrey Shore Endowed Lecture Series, 1:30 p.m., University Union Hinde Auditorium. (916) 278-6578.

“N” Word panel discussion, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union Hinde Auditorium. (916) 278-6101.

wednesday, feb. 5

“Facing Global Challenges Together: The New Trans-Atlantic Agenda,” Hungarian Ambassador Andras Simonyi, noon, University Union Hinde Auditorium. (916) 278-6997.

“Reconstructing Dubois’ Double Consciousness as Political and Cultural Stasis,” Ricky Green, CSUS ethnic studies professor, Black History Month, noon, University Union Delta Suite. (916) 278-5363.

That 1 Guy, futuristic funk, noon, University Union Redwood Room. (916) 278-6997.

African Health and Sexuality Forum, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union Redwood Room. (916) 278-6101.

thursday, feb. 6

Step Afrika USA!, percussive dance, Black History Month, 7:30 pm, University Union

‘V-DAY’ TRIBUTE

Students, faculty and staff are taking on the award-winning play The Vagina Monologues to raise awareness and money for the CSUS Women’s Resource Center and the SHARE Institute, an organization working to improve the health of women around the world.

Performances are at 8 p.m., Thursday-Saturday, Feb. 13-15 at the University Theatre located in Shasta Hall.

Based on interviews with more than 200 women about their memories and experiences of sexuality, Monologues gives voice to women’s deepest fantasies and fears. “It’s hilarious, empowering, radical and just a really good time,” says Jessica Higgins of the CSUS Women’s Resource Center. “It’s very moving,” she says.

There are nearly 660 universities around the world presenting the Monologues as part of V-Day, a month-long event that generates funds for organizations and programs working to stop violence against women and girls. In its first five years, the V-Day movement has raised more than $14 million, with more than $7 million raised in 2002 alone.

Tickets are $8 for students, $15 for general admission and $10 each for groups of 10 or more. They can be purchased at the CSUS Ticket office at (916) 278-4323 or www.tickets.com.

Ballroom, $10 general/$7 students. Tickets at CSUS Ticket Office (916) 278-4323 or at Tickets.com at (916) 766-2277.

Men’s Tennis vs. UC Davis, 2 p.m., Rio Del Oro Raquet Club. (916) 278-6481.

Friends of the Library used book sale, 10 a.m. - 3 p.m., University Library lower level. (916) 487-8272.

Bamboozled, film and discussion, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union Orchard Suite. (916) 278-6101.

friday, feb. 7

“Empowering Black Males,” panel discussion, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union Hinde Auditorium. (916) 278-6101.

Renaissance Society Rendezvous, 1 - 3 p.m., University Union Redwood Room. (916) 278-7834.

saturday, feb. 8

Men’s Basketball vs. Northern Arizona, 7:05 p.m., Hornet Gym. Tickets $10 reserved/$6 general/CSUS students and children under 5 free. Tickets at CSUS Ticket Office at (916) 278-4323 or at Tickets.com at (916) 766-2277.

Baseball vs. Cal State Stanislaus, 1 p.m., Hornet Field. Tickets $5 adult/$4 seniors and non-CSUS students/$2 children ages 6-12/CSUS students with ID and children under 5 free. Tickets at the event. Season tickets available at (916) 278-4590.

“Simply Enchanting: A Tribute to Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II,” 8 p.m., proceeds to benefit the Gerard A. Larson Scholarship Fund. Donation $15 general/$5 students. Tickets at the door. Performances Feb. 8-9.

3rd CSUS Arts Resource Fair, guest speakers, exhibitors and workshops, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., University Union. (916) 708-0231 or tina.hughes@rlusd.org

sunday, feb. 9

Men’s Tennis vs. Hawai’i, 1 p.m., Rio Del Oro Raquet Club. (916) 278-6481.

Baseball vs. Cal State Stanislaus, 2 p.m., Hornet Field. Tickets $5 adult/$4 seniors and non-CSUS students/$2 children ages 6-12/CSUS students with ID and children under 5 free. Tickets at the event. Season tickets available at (916) 278-4590.

“Simply Enchanting: A Tribute to Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II,” 2 p.m., proceeds to benefit the Gerard A. Larson Scholarship Fund. Donation $15 general/$5 students. Tickets at the door. Performances Feb. 8-9.

Opening Gala with CSUS Faculty All Stars, New Millennium Concert Series, 8 p.m., Music Recital Hall in Capistrano Hall. $15 Tickets at CSUS Ticket Office at (916) 278-4323 or at Tickets.com at (916) 766-2277.

Undergraduate and Graduate Art Awards Show, noon - 4:30 p.m., Monday - Friday, Robert Else Gallery, Kadema Hall. (916) 278-6166. Reception, 5 - 6:30 p.m., Feb. 13. Exhibit continues to March 7.

Information session on graduate studies, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union Orchard Suite. (916) 278-6101.

tuesday, feb. 11

“Government in the Global Economy,” global business education symposium, keynote speaker Lon Hatamiya, California secretary of trade and commerce, 8 a.m. - 6:30 p.m., various rooms and floors in the University Union. For specific times and locations, visit www.csus.edu/mgmt/gbes.

“Christian Education as a Silver Bullet,” lecture and discussion, Black History Month, 7 p.m., University Union. (916) 278-6101.

wednesday, feb. 12

“All But Dissertation,” open forum/brown bag discussion, noon-1 p.m., Library 4026. RSVP at (916) 278-5945 or e-mail ctl@csus.edu

Lecture and photo journal exhibition, 2002 Summer Fulbright-Hayes Seminar in Uganda, Black History Month, noon, University Union Delta Suite. (916) 278-5363.

Fiction Reading, Doug Rice, 7:30 - 8:30 p.m., Library Gallery. (916) 278-5989.

Nearly-Wed Game, hosted by comedian Del Van Dyke, noon, University Union Redwood Room. (916) 278-6997.

“African Spirituality and Activism,” mini-conference, Black History Month, 5 - 10 p.m., University Union. (916) 278-6101.

thursday, feb. 13

Helobung Cultural Troupe, T’boli music and dance from the Phillipines, 7:30 pm, University Union Ballroom. (916) 278-6997.

Men’s Basketball vs. Eastern Washington, 7:05 p.m., Hornet Gym. Tickets $10 reserved/$6 general/CSUS students and children under 5 free. Tickets at CSUS Ticket Office at (916) 278-4323 or at Tickets.com at (916) 766-2277.

Vagina Monologues, 8 p.m., University Theatre, proceeds benefit CSUS Women’s Resource Center and the SHARE Institute. Tickets $8 CSUS students and seniors/$15 non-CSUS students/$10 groups of 10 or more. Tickets at CSUS Ticket Office (916) 278-4323 or at Tickets.com (916) 278-7388. Performances Feb. 13 - 15.

Struck Dumb, play about the disease aphasia, performed by Short Center Repertory actors, 11:45 a.m. - 1 p.m., University Union Hinde Auditorium. (916) 278-6997.

friday, feb. 14

“Pre-Tenure Alliance Brown Bag: Making Sense of Student Evaluation Feedback,” noon-1 p.m., Library 4026. RSVP at (916) 278-5945 or e-mail ctl@csus.edu

Women’s Tennis vs. UC Riverside, 2 p.m., Rio Del Oro Raquet Club. (916) 278-6481.

Vagina Monologues, 8 p.m., University Theatre, proceeds benefit CSUS Women’s Resource Center and the SHARE Institute. Tickets $8 CSUS students and seniors/$15 non-CSUS students/$10 groups of 10 or more. Tickets at CSUS Ticket Office (916) 278-4323 or at Tickets.com (916) 278-7388. Performances Feb. 13 - 15.

faculty senate

- Monday, Feb. 3
2 p.m. Committee on Diversity and Equity (CODE)
3 p.m. General Education Policies/Graduation Requirements Committee
 - Tuesday, Feb. 4
1:30 p.m. Curriculum Policies Committee
3 p.m. Executive Committee
3 p.m. University ARTP Committee University Union Capital Room
 - Wednesday, Feb. 5
1 p.m. Faculty Policies Committee
 - Friday, Feb. 7
2 p.m. Academic Policies Committee
 - Monday, Feb. 10
2 p.m. Committee on Diversity and Equity (CODE) (tentative)
- All meetings are in Sacramento Hall 275 unless otherwise noted.