Keynote by Jill Biden will highlight California Teachers Summit on July 28

Sacramento State again will serve as one of the 34 hosting sites statewide as the third annual Better Together: California Teachers Summit takes place Friday, July 28, in the University Union Ballroom.

This year's keynote speaker will be Dr. Jill Biden, who will address the summit in a simulcast from the headquarters site at Saint Mary's College of California. Biden is a lifelong educator and the wife of former Vice President Joe Biden. As the nation's second lady, she worked to highlight the importance of community colleges to America's future while continuing to teach as a full-time English professor at a community college in northern Virginia. With the February 2017 launch of the Biden Foundation, she and her husband will continue their commitment to public education. Jill Biden's experience and insights are especially valuable as California strives to better serve all of our students in a changing world.

Registration is open for this free event, and students are encouraged to attend. For more information: CATEachersSummit.com. #BetterTogetherCA
