Our Year of Disconnect- The Politics of Power

in California

Whether California will see a continuation of blackouts or a resolution of the State's energy agonies, basic and important questions will remain. What lessons have we learned? What lessons have been ignored or forgotten? What lessons are yet to be learned by California and the Nation? This year's Envisioning California Conference will bring together representatives, experts and national observers from the public and private sectors on the energy crisis to address these and other questions. We hope you will join us too!

Thank You

We are grateful to our partner, the Sacramento Center, School of Policy, Planning and Development, University of Southern California.

The Center also wishes to thank the following affiliates whose support makes this conference possible:
