On-Campus Recruitment Program (OCR)
The On-Campus Recruitment (OCR) team works diligently to maintain the highest level of professionalism to support your recruitment efforts at Sacramento State. Employers who are hiring candidates for “bona fide” jobs may interview through the On-Campus Recruiting program. A bona fide job requires either a Bachelor's or Master's degree, and does not require the candidate to pay a fee for training, equipment, application procedures or other job-related expenses (this does not apply to federal or state licensing requirements).

Employers may only recruit on-campus for existing job vacancies or those that will exist by the time a candidate is available for employment with your organization. Campus interviews must be directly scheduled and conducted by the organization’s employees, rather than by third party representatives. Employers who recruit at Sacramento State must adhere to Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) guidelines which can be found at http://www.eeoc.gov/laws/practices/index.cfm, and the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) Principles for Professional Practice. The NACE guidelines can be found at www.naceweb.org/Legal/Principles/6__Compliance_with_EEO_and_AA_Principles_%28employer%29.aspx.
The guidelines apply for all full-time, part-time, co-op, and internship opportunities.

Internship Program
How can you meet the needs of your organization, yet prepare a student for the future? One way is to develop a quality internship program. The following information will help you to develop your internship program.

Internships provide students with the opportunity to work in pre-professional positions while still in school. Internships are any type of carefully planned and monitored work experience in which the intern has intentional learning goals. Internships can be a part of the student’s educational program or can be a part of the student’s individual learning plan. Internships should promote academic, career and/or personal development.

Internships for Credit
Internships come in many forms: some carry academic credit. If you would like students to receive academic credit for participating in your internship, contact individual academic departments for more details.

Consider questions about internships. Most employers determine pay based on the student’s class level and types of responsibilities.

Internship Duration
Internships are generally a one-time experience. Internships can last from one month to one year, and typical internships last one semester.

Benefits of Having an Intern
- Interns provide employers with a continual pool of high-achieving students.
- Interns allow flexibility in staffing needs: it frees up higher paid staff to do more advanced or higher priority work.
- Internships offer a cost-effective screening program of recruiting highly qualified students.
- Interns returning to campus are effective public relations ambassadors and contribute positively to a company’s recruiting efforts and image.
- Internships serve as a low-cost training and development program.
- Employer-University ties are strengthened and communication is improved.
- Internships tend to increase regular employee motivation and productivity.
- Interns are enthusiastic people who will provide new ideas and new viewpoints.
- Interns that are hired on as a permanent employee after graduation generally experience greater satisfaction with their jobs than regular hires, and therefore help reduce turnover.

Getting Started
First, you must develop an internship program that will meet your needs. Make a list of your needs. Answer questions like these: are you a small organization looking for help on a special project? Are you a growing organization that needs to find motivated employees? Are you a nonprofit that doesn’t have a lot of money, but could provide an excellent experience for a student? You can specifically design your internship program to meet your expectations. In order or your program to be successful, however, it will require commitment on your part.

Second, draft an internship description that includes job duties and a list of qualifications that may include a specific major, computer skills, class level, etc. Your listing should also include information regarding citizenship. Consider, for example, whether you will open your position to permanent residents only, or open it to international students who have F-1 Visas? Remember to additionally include information on the application...
Finally, you should receive any written description, post it on Career Connection. You should also email your posting to internships@csus.edu so you posting can be sent out through the internship listserv.

Third, recruit an intern. How will you find the ideal intern? The Career Center is a great place to start your search. You should begin recruiting the semester before you need an intern. For example, if you need a summer intern, you should begin advertising in the spring semester. This will give you time to write your description, post it, receive resumes/applications, set up interviews, and finally hire your intern. Career Connection is an effective resource to help advertise your internship.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, make sure you are familiar with the legalities of hiring an intern. As with any other employee, interns have rights and are protected under the law. See below for more information, or contact your corporate lawyer or your own human resources department.

Legal Concerns Regarding Unpaid Internships
Do interns have to be paid? The US Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), www.dol.gov/compliance/laws/comp-flsa.htm, which applies to all companies that have at least two employees directly engaged in interstate commerce and annual sales of at least $500,000.00, severely restricts an employer’s ability to hire paid interns.

You don’t have to pay interns who qualify as leaders/trainees. However, if you are a for-profit company offering an unpaid internship, the US Department of Labor has outlined six criteria for determining unpaid trainee status, which can be found at www.dol.gov/whd/regs/compliance/whdfs71.pdf. Be sure to find out about workers and unemployment compensation through your human resources department.

If an intern is harassed at your company and no appropriate action is taken, the company is at risk for possible lawsuits. Make sure you advise your intern of appropriate workplace behavior and the company’s harassment policy and complaint procedures.

International Students
If you need information about student visas and recruiting international students, contact the Sacramento State University Office of Global Education at 916-278-6686. You can also contact Immigration Support Services, 1300 Bent Creek Blvd., Mechanicsburg, PA, 17055, call 1-800-437-7313, or visit www.immigrationsupport.com.

Co-op Program
The Cooperative Education Program helps place students in advanced internship positions during which they earn both pay and academic credit. Co-op positions provide students with work experience that is academically related to their area of study, allowing them to apply classroom theory to practical applications in industry. Experience gained in these high-level internships gives students a significant advantage when seeking employment after graduation. Departmental requirements for co-op vary depending on major.

For information about the Career Center Cooperative Education Program, please visit: www.csus.edu/careercenter/employers/coop.htm.

Intern Evaluation
Be sure that you evaluate your intern at least once a month, if not more. Interns need guidance, reassurance, and feedback. As an employer, you will want to ensure that your intern is meeting your expectations. The evaluation can be formal and in writing or as an informal conversation. The benefit of written evaluations is that if you want to rehire your intern at a later time, you will already have some information about your intern. Additionally, your intern will have a record of your feedback to refer to in his or her future employment and skill development.

You can also have the intern evaluate their experience at the end of their internship by use of a self-reflection or self-evaluation. This will help you to determine whether your internship program has been beneficial to the student or if improvements or changes need to be made; self-evaluations are also valuable to the intern, who will need to think critically about how the internship affected him or her, and then articulate those ideas in writing.

Career Fairs

Students from all academic majors and class levels, alumni, and community members attend the career fairs. This fair is for employers recruiting for full-time, part-time, internship, co-op, or volunteer positions. The focus of the fairs is on job and internship opportunities. However, we educate and encourage students to begin their research early to prepare for the time they will graduate and begin their job search. Therefore, you will see employee candidates, as well as those students seeking information about your business and service.

Please note that reservations are limited to employers with a direct employer/employee relationship. This policy excludes third party recruiters, independent contractor positions and testing organizations.

Registration Process

Employers who wish to attend, should complete the online registration at www.csus.edu/careercenter/employers/fairs_events.stm. Please be sure you select the appropriate fair for you.

Career Fair Day-At-A-Glance
7:30am - 9:30am Recruiter check-in and setup
8:00am - 10:00am Breakfast
10:00am - 2:00pm Fair open
11:30am - 1:30pm Lunch (fair remains open)
2:00pm - 3:00pm Fair closes (representatives may break down displays)

Please do not tear down your display, pack your materials, or leave before the close time (2pm). Students expect to be able to reach you until then. Packing early interrupts the fair atmosphere, as well as discourages students that have classes and cannot attend the fair until the afternoon.

- Home-based business/direct sales/franchise or distributorship opportunities

- Polling or surveying of students
- Fundraising or petition drives

- Staffing agencies - unless these conditions are met:
  - The agency provides the Career Center with the job descriptions and company names (company names will remain confidential) within 2 weeks of registration
  - The jobs require a degree

  - No fees or expenses are required from the student (e.g. no purchase of kits or merchandise is required, etc.)

- Call the Events office at 916-278-5621 for Third Party Recruiter pricing.
