In the Fall of 2011, Sacramento State had to suspend the Sixty Plus Program. Today, Sacramento State continues to be classified as an “impacted” campus. Impaction means that the University has more demand from students to enroll than it is able to accommodate with classes and services. As a result, Sacramento State has reluctantly decided to continue to suspend the Sixty Plus Fee Waiver Program as one of the cost-saving measures needed to address higher student demand and the continued lack of funding and resources necessary to support programs such as the Sixty Plus Fee Waiver program.

Persons interested in pursuing a degree will need to apply for admission. Information on the undergraduate application process is available on the Admissions and Outreach website: http://www.csus.edu/admissions/ Please look at the deadline dates for application for a future semester. If you are interested in a graduate program, you will find information available on the Graduate Studies website: http://www.csus.edu/gradstudies/ As the fee waiver program is no longer available, you can apply for financial aid by completing the Free Application for Financial Aid (FAFSA) each year (www.fafsa.ed.gov) Please know that that there is a priority filing deadline for the academic year you which you are applying.

Finally, should you be interested in taking a class through Open University, College of Continuing Education, you will find information on the CCE website: http://www.cce.csus.edu/ CCE is a self-support college of the University and is unable to offer direct financial aid. Additional information on financial assistance can be found on their website, Frequently Asked Questions.

Sincerely,

Dennis L Geyer

Dennis L. Geyer
University Registrar