Language LABORATORY facilities are located on the second floor of Mariposa Hall. Tapes may be listened to, checked out, or copied in Mariposa 2002. The lab staff will copy tapes for you, if provided with a 60 minute tape.

Catalogue Description: German 001A. Elementary German. Focuses on the development of listening, speaking, and reading skills. Special attention will be given to the relationship of the language to the civilization and culture of the German-speaking countries. Prerequisite: No prerequisites. 4 units

It is expected that the student in German 1A has had no previous experience in German. Students having successfully completed one semester of college German or one year of high school German should be enrolled in German 1B.

Course Description: A BEGINNING course in the German language that focuses on the development of listening, speaking and reading skills. German 1B is a continuation of 1A. Speaking, listening, and reading skills are practiced with more emphasis placed on the development of writing skills in 1B. Chapter 6 should be completed in German 1A; in 1B the material through Chapter 11.

Attendance: Instructors have the right to administratively remove any student who, during the first two weeks of instruction, fails to attend any two class meetings (for courses that meet two or more times a week), or one class meeting (for courses that meet once a week). It is therefore especially important that students contact instructors in advance regarding absences during the add/drop period. However, do not assume instructors will turn in official drops. It is the responsibility of each student to officially drop any scheduled courses he or she is not attending. Failure to do so will result in penalty grades ("WU" or "F").

Method of Instruction: Regular teacher-student interaction practicing the most basic structures and vocabulary places considerable emphasis upon aural-oral skills. Students are introduced to the concept that language has structure; words are classified according to their parts of speech; German nouns and pronouns have gender and function, verbs are transitive and intransitive, regular and irregular in their conjugation. Lectures and demonstrations illustrate that German requires the use of four cases to show the relationships of one word to the others in a sentence. German reading passages and written and oral exercises based on the vocabulary and grammar of the chapter demonstrate and practice these principles. Written exercises include fill-in-the-blank sentences, translations from German into English and English into German, vocabulary matching, and others. Students will memorize selected dialogues--models of the grammatical patterns--and new vocabulary in each chapter. Students learn to ask and answer basic questions in German dealing with everyday vocabulary and situations by the daily oral practice.

Student Learning Objectives:

a) the proper pronunciation of the sounds of the German language
b) a basic vocabulary
c) the basic grammatical structures.
d) Students will be able to understand German that is spoken at a moderate conversational speed and that deals with everyday topics and will be able to engage in simple conversations in everyday situations. Students demonstrate that they are able to think critically by manipulating the basic structures of the language to develop meaning in listening, speaking, reading and writing within the cultural context
e) Students demonstrate that they are able to read non-technical German of moderate difficulty on various aspects of German culture and that they are able to write simple sentences correctly, using present, present perfect, past perfect and imperfect tenses.
f) Students demonstrate a basic knowledge about the countries where German is spoken and become aware of essential differences and similarities between these countries and the English-speaking world.
Tests and homework: There will be frequent quizzes, testing of vocabulary and control of specific grammatical concepts, chapter tests, and a final examination. Quizzes are announced and there are no make-ups. Students will need at least five 882E Scantron forms for short quizzes during the semester. Grades will be determined on the quality of classroom participation and on the grades received on written quizzes and tests. There will be a two-hour final exam, a one-hour midterm, chapter tests and periodic short quizzes throughout the semester.

Regular attendance and classroom participation are essential. Vocabulary and conversational pattern practices will be assigned regularly as memory work. Grammatical structures will be explained in class and daily homework assignments will involve regular practice of the grammatical principles learned. Additional listening and speaking practice and structure drills are provided by regular lab assignments, which are to be completed in the language laboratory with the tapes that accompany the text.

Grading Scale: 90-100% = A, 80-89% = B, 70-79% = C, 60-69% = D, less than 60% = F

Exam: The two-hour final exam will be given on Monday, December 10th in Mariposa 2030 at 5:30 P.M.
