General Course Description:
This course offers a general introduction to the nature and function of myth. The specific material studied will be exclusive of classical mythology and the breadth of the subject matter will vary in content. The mythology of at least four world cultures will be covered each term. The teaching format of the class will be lecture with discussion as time allows and when appropriate to examination of the topics.

Specific Focus of This Section:
This section will examine specific mythology of the Near East, South Pacific, Northern Europe and North America. (Because mythology encompasses vast amounts of often complex and esoteric information, our studies cannot be comprehensive, but are designed as introductions and hopefully will inspire interest and further study.) In addition to reading and discussion of primary source materials, this course will include an exploration of scholarly theoretical approaches regarding the role and function of myth within different cultural contexts.

Required Texts:

HRS 151 – World Mythology Reader: This must be purchased through universityreaders.com. It is not available through the CSUS bookstore. Information on purchasing the reader will be provided in the first week of the semester. Additional reading materials including, but not limited to, online material or handouts may be provided throughout the course of the semester.

Course Objectives:
Successful students will:
- acquire a thorough understanding of the definition of myth and its purpose as an important expression of culture.
- be familiar with the essential mythology of the featured societies and be able to draw cross-cultural comparisons.
- develop an understanding of how modern theorists have approached the study of myth.
- recognize and appreciate the continuing influence and value of mythology in the arts and society.

Requirements and Grading:
Reading and writing are fundamental aspects of this course, therefore, it is essential to complete all reading assignments and be attentive to lecture materials and presentations. (Take notes!) Attendance is required as per departmental attendance policy — grade reductions will result from excessive absences. Respectful participation in class discussions is encouraged and may affect your overall grade favorably.* Disrespectful conduct, including, but not limited to, cell phones ringing, texting, playing computer games, chatting, coming in late, leaving early, disruptive behavior, etc...will affect your grade unfavorably. If you have special needs or extreme circumstances requiring you to miss class, come late, etc..., please discuss with the instructor.
*If you are a student who experiences anxiety simply at the thought of speaking up in class, please see me for helpful strategies and tips for reducing stress and improving your learning experience. I consider all students equally important to the classroom dynamic.

Course grades are determined by the following:

<thead>

† The attendance and participation grade will include points accumulated by good attendance (15 pts), class discussion (15 pts), regular “journaling” (10 pts) and some miscellaneous “TBA” opportunities (20 pts).

 All quizzes, writing assignments and the final must be taken at the scheduled times. Students may not leave and return to the classroom during quizzes, writing assignments or the final. Take care of any necessary tasks before or after the class session. If you require special testing and/or writing accommodations, please consult with instructor. For quizzes you will need 4 Scantron forms, 882-E. For the final you will need 1 Scantron 886-E. For the in-class writing assignments plain notebook paper is fine—a bluebook is okay, but not necessary.

* You will have either two in-class writing assignments or one in-class writing assignment and a traditional paper—the choice will be yours. The first assignment will be worth 30 points and the second assignment will be worth 45 points giving you a potential 75 points for this portion of your grade. The in-class writing assignments will be graded on a simple rubric (0-1- minimal or no effort, unfamiliar with the topic, 2-some basic ideas, 3-very good development in discussion of assigned topics and good use of information gained through the lectures and readings and 4-excellent application of knowledge and analysis of material including good creative interpretation.) Good writing skills will be important in presenting your ideas well, but emphasis will be on thinking and your understanding of concepts and course material rather than mechanics of writing. These assignments are not tests, but exercises in analysis of information and creative application of your knowledge. No additional preparation beyond completing assigned readings and attentive presence in class should be necessary to do well on the writings.

More detailed instructions and guidelines will be given at the time of assignments.

The in-class writing assignment point conversion for the purposes of calculating your writing assignment grades will be as follows:

First writing assignment: 4 = 30 grade points; 3 = 26 grade points; 2 = 23 grade points; 1 = 15 grade points.
Second writing assignment: 4 = 45 grade points; 3 = 38 grade points; 2 = 32 grade points; 1 = 22 grade points.

Paper option: If you prefer, you may choose to substitute a traditional paper for the second in-class writing assignment. The paper will be MLA format, 5-6 pages in length and due before or on the date of the second writing assignment. The topic will be given to you upon request two weeks before the due date. You must turn in a hard copy—no email copies will be accepted for credit. I do check for plagiarism. Papers with plagiarized content, or papers obviously copied from others will be given zero points and your participation grade will be reduced to zero. The paper will be graded on a point scale: x/45. Late papers will lose 10 pts per day.
Final Exam: The final will consist of multiple choice and short essay questions. It will only be comprehensive as it pertains to basic, theoretical concepts and practices in the study of myth and basic knowledge of our focus cultures. The greater emphasis will be on the material covered in the second half of the semester. You will need Scantron form 886-E for the final.

Adjustments may be made to this syllabus at the discretion of the instructor. Students will be given reasonable notice prior to any such changes.
