

Internet Suicide Postvention Resources

Prepared by Stephen E. Brock, Ph.D., NCSP
California State University Sacramento
January 2010

"Suicide Postvention"

Suicide is a personal and interpersonal disaster. The moment of the disaster's happening is its most dramatic. But it is not its only moment. A tragedy has its warnings and precursors – and it has its sequelae. There is much to be done after an earthquake, explosion, avalanche, tornado, fire, flood – or suicide. Postvention – the events that come after the dramatic event that gives the entire sequence its label – aims to mollify the inimical psychological sequelae in survivor- victims

Edwin Shneidman (2001)

Readings

http://www.mces.org/EMT_police_booklet.doc

Written and published by the Montgomery County Emergency Services (Norristown, PA) in January 2005, this link sends offers a booklet titled “What Emergency Responders Need to Know About Suicide Loss: A Suicide Postvention Handbook.

<http://theguide.fmhi.usf.edu/pdf/IB-7a.pdf>

This pdf file provides the six page document “Youth Suicide Prevention School-Based Guide – Issue Brief 7a: Prepareing for and Responding to a Death by Suicidee: Steps for Responding to a Suicidal Crisis,” authored by J. Doan, S. Roggenbaum and K Lazear in 2003, and published by the University of South Florida.

<http://www.suicideinfo.ca/csp/assets/alert54.pdf>

The pdf file provides the document “School Memorials After Suicide: Helpful or Harmful?” Published by the Centre of Suicide Preveniton (Calgary, Alberta) in May 2004 (Issue #54), this two page handout review issues surround school-based memorials.

<http://www.naspcenter.org/principals/aftersuicide.html>

This web page offers the paper “After a Suicide: Answering Questions for Students.” It was written by Scott Poland and published by the National Association of School Psychologists in 2003.

Web Pages

http://www.save.org/index.cfm?fuseaction=home.viewPage&page_id=EB883CA2-7E90-9BD4-C5E35440BC7761EE

Sponsored by SAVE (Suicide Awareness Voices of Eduction), this web page has a variety of resources for suicide postvention including the link “coping with loss.” From this link you can access the following papers: “Grief After Suicide,” “People Grieve Differently,” “Responding to Survivors.”

<http://www.mentalhealth.samhsa.gov/suicideprevention/default.asp>

The National Strategy for Suicide Prevention web page includes a variety of resources that may be helpful to the school psychologist conducting a suicide postvention.