Writing Prompt #1
Due Wednesday, February 10th at 12:00pm

In a well-crafted, 2 page, double-spaced essay (i.e., one with an introduction and conclusion), please address the following question(s). References to specific passages of original source material may be used to strengthen your argument; however, please be sure to cite them appropriately. Any citation style you choose is fine.

Your essay will be graded for grammar, style, and clarity; therefore, a poorly written essay will receive lower points than one with the same argument that is well-written. Please remember that I am happy to assist you with your writing skills by giving you feedback before the essay is due.

Identify and explain two common characteristics in the economic thought of the ancient Chinese, ancient Israelites, and the ancient Greeks. (Hint: each characteristic must be commonly held by at least two, but not necessarily all three, societies).
