

Ashfall

Map shows the PROBABILITY that volcanic ash will be deposited to a thickness of 1/3 inch during one year. Volcanic ash, of this thickness or less, can cause disruption of ground and air transportation, and cause damage to electronics and machinery.

Map shows the PROBABILITY that ash will be deposited to a thickness of 4 inches during one year. Four inches of volcanic ash is a sufficient quantity to collapse roofs of buildings.