

Course Learning Journal Midterm Draft

- ❖ Your ability to develop a personal learning journal is the capstone of the course. The learning journal will provide a framework for you to think about what you learned in the course and an opportunity to continually examine your personal development as a financial analyst, critical thinker, and executive decision-maker.
- ❖ The construction of your learning journal begins with a daily journal that evolves as you read about, discuss, and experience the implementation of different ideas presented in the course.
- ❖ Overall, the learning journal should capture the daily snapshots of your: 1) personal values (how you view the information offered throughout the course), 2) concepts and ideas that you have accumulated, and 3) personal reflections on your experiences, perspectives, competencies, weaknesses, and biases that the course caused you to address.
- ❖ The Midterm Draft that you turn in should:
  - Be a condensed summary of your daily entries, organized in a manner that is easy to follow.
  - Include a cover sheet and an error-free text body that does not exceed 7 pages.
  - Be written in a business-writing format that is crisp, to the point, and adequately supported by examples, anecdotes, and facts.
- ❖ Your learning journal Midterm Draft will be evaluated based on your thoughtfulness and thoroughness in addressing the following points:
  - Growth: Give examples of how your original ideas/concepts/beliefs about managerial accounting were challenged and adjusted.
  - Application: Apply lessons learned in the course to your own real-world experiences/environment.
