An evening with legendary opera singer Beverly Sills, an exhibition of famed California artists, an exhibit by filmmaker Deborah LeKوتowitz, a poetry reading by Pulitzer Prize-winner Jorie Graham and an installation piece by sculptor Judy Pfaff all highlight the 10th annual Festival of the Arts, April 4 - 14.

More than 20,000 people attended last year’s various dance, design, art, poetry, theatre and music events and this year’s festival promises to gather even bigger crowds with an exciting 10th anniversary schedule.

Sills is a child of immigrants, the mother of two children challenged by birth defects, the first female director of the New York City Opera, recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom and America’s most celebrated soprano. She will be on campus 8 a.m. - p.m., Thursday, April 11 in the University Union Ballroom. Tickets for the event are $10 general and free for CSUS students.

“The Society of Six,” an exhibition of more than 25 paintings by California plein-air artists created during the early part of the 20th Century, will be on display at the CSUS Library Gallery starting April 4. The exhibition marks the first time the works, most from the private collection of CSUS emeritus professor Robert E. Aichele, have been shown together.

Tickets may be available at the door, but organizers urge those interested to purchase tickets in advance. Those to be honored are:

BRUSHED BY ZEN

"Zen Brush," an exhibit of oriental brush and ink on rice paper by Marie Taylor, is on display at the University Union Gallery through March 21. The exhibit features 27 of Taylor’s black and white prints, including “Mimi the Cat” (pictured). Some are based on classic Chinese and Japanese master’s works, while others are inspired by images found in nature. All display a simple, strong use of line and space.

“The interplay of positive and negative areas invites the viewer to explore the energy expressed and bring his or her own intuition to the experience,” she says.

Taylor’s work has been featured in a variety of group shows throughout California. A full-time executive director of the Lincoln Arts and Culture Foundation and board member of the Matrix Arts Gallery, Taylor is a current member of the Arts Council of Placer County.

“In my art, I seek to allow the brush and ink to speak without interference,” Taylor says. “My goal is to simplify form and go straight to the heart of things. This minimalist approach may require hundreds of attempts for each completed work, for each stroke stands alone and is unalterable.”

The gallery is open from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday - Friday and 8 a.m. - 3 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays. For more information call 278-6744.
