One World Initiative’s ‘Global Perspectives on Water’ brings courses, events together
The One World Initiative is a new campus-wide framework that brings together and highlights the many global engagement opportunities at Sacramento State, both within the curriculum and the broader campus environment. Faculty, staff and students from all disciplines are invited to address the inaugural theme, “Global Perspectives on Water,” through lecture or film series, college colloquia or performances.

If your course, event or program focuses on – or even has selected components of – this year’s theme, contact the One World Initiative task force to be identified as part of the One World Initiative. For more information or to join the informational email list, please visit csus.edu/oneworld.

Sac State welcomes two interim associate deans
Two Sacramento State professors have advanced to the post of interim associate dean at their respective colleges.

Business Professor Seung Bach has assumed duties as associate dean of the College of Business Administration. He replaced the late Russell Ching, who died in May. Bach came to Sacramento State in 2002 and most recently taught a full course load while serving as director of the University’s Center for Entrepreneurship, an independent program supervised by the College of Business Administration. In his new position, Bach’s main focus will be on managing the college’s undergraduate program.

Communication Professor Kimo Ah Yun is the new associate dean of the College of Arts and Letters. The appointment takes effect Aug. 9. He has been at Sac State since 1996, following stints at Southeast Missouri State University and Michigan State. He received the President’s annual research award in 2003 and in 2006-07 won the Outstanding Teaching Award. He was named chair of the Communication Studies Department in 2010.

Faculty Status Report for Fall 2011 released; Four Year Trend analysis updated
The Faculty Status Report for Fall 2011 has been completed. The report displays four tabulations of the ratio: all faculty headcount, all full-time equivalent faculty (FTEF), instructional FTEF and full-time equivalent student (FTES) generated by instructional FTEF. This report also regroups faculty headcount, all FTEF, instructional FTEF and FTES into four categories: tenure/on tenure track, non-tenure track, FERP/staff and teaching assistant. Moreover, all figures are aggregated at the departmental, college and University levels.

Also updated for this report is the Four Year Trend analysis, which compares the Faculty Status Report by college and for the University from Fall 2008 to Fall 2011. For a detailed look at the report: www.csus.edu/oir/Data%20Center/Faculty%20Special%20Reports/Faculty%20Special%20Reports.html. Entries sought for California Journalism Awards
Journalists are invited to submit entries for the 18th annual California Journalism Awards and the Katharine M. Macdonald Award sponsored by the Center for California Studies at Sacramento State and the Sacramento Press Club. The awards, established in 1994, recognize excellence in reporting on California state government, policy or issues. Awards will be given in the following categories: daily coverage, special feature or enterprise reporting, blog, radio, television and photo journalism. A cash prize of $500 will accompany each award. Also, the Katharine M. Macdonald Award will be given to a student journalist and will be accompanied by a $300 prize.

Please visit www.csus.edu/calst for more information and to submit entries. The entries must be postmarked no later than Tuesday, July 31, and the material must have been published or broadcast in California between Jan. 1, 2011, and June 1, 2012. Judges will be distinguished active and retired journalists and academics. The awards will be presented at a reception at the Sacramento Convention Center on Thursday, Sept. 13.

For more information about the awards and/or the awards ceremony, contact the Center for California Studies, 278-6906 or calstudies@csus.edu.

Security quick tip: Passwords
All Sacramento State users must exercise care by choosing passwords that are difficult to compromise or access. Failure to do so can jeopardize systems and information. For example, words found in a dictionary, birthdays or anything related to the user's personal life should not be used. This does not rule out passwords that are easy to remember – for example, combining numbers or punctuation with one or more words could produce an easy-to-remember but hard-to-guess password.

Human Resources

Professional development and training
The Office of Human Resources will offer professional development summer skills tune-ups as follows:

Discover Your Strengths: 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 1 (all employees); 8 a.m.-noon Thursday, Aug. 2 (supervisors and managers); both in the University Union, Foothill Suite; facilitated by Sharon Hunstman.

Workshop description: Recent research and practice indicate it is far more productive and motivating for individuals to focus and work on developing strengths than to work only on improving weaknesses. While it is important to understand shortcomings that are negatively impacting our effectiveness, we can contribute vastly more to our organizations by knowing, developing and using our strengths more often. The challenge is that most people don't fully understand their talents and strengths. This course will give each participant a chance to assess and discuss his or her strengths and plan to develop and apply them more in their work, as well as appreciate and use the strengths of others in their teams.

FRISK Leadership Training – Raising the Bar on Employee Accountability (supervisors and managers): 8:15-11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 15, University Union, Redwood Room; facilitated by Scot Yarnell, partner, Atkinson, Andelson, Loya, Ruud & Romo.

Workshop description: FRISK is an acronym representing the components that should be included in all legally sufficient documentation of unsatisfactory employee performance: facts, rule, impact, suggestions and knowledge. The FRISK model has received state and national recognition as an effective framework for documenting and correcting employee performance. The FRISK model focuses on using documentation constructively to effect positive change in employee performance through clear, honest and impartial communication.

To register for these workshops, please go to www.csus.edu/hr/traindev/training.html and select the workshop of interest.
