Changes to a course's units impact any related programs. As a result, a corresponding change must also be submitted for those programs

In what term(s) will this course typically be offered?

Fall, Spring

Does this course require a room for its final exam?

Yes, final exam requires a room

Does this course replace an existing experimental course?

No

This course complies with the credit hour policy:

Yes

Justification for course proposal:

This course is being modified to fit with new program requirements (please see appropriate form B); significant portfolio projects that become part of a student's e-portfolio are being added to the course and the number of units changed appropriately (4-unit course).

So that this course can serve our majors as a 4-unit portfolio course, we are removing it from upper division GE. Students have many options for upper division GE, and our majors will soon be limited in the number of upper division area C courses for which they can receive GE credit. We will continue to serve the majors and the university with upper division GE with courses like ENGL 191A--Masterpieces of World Cinema.

This course will continue to satisfy the Writing Intensive requirement.

Minor editorial corrections have been made to title and course description.

Course Description: (Not to exceed 80 words and language should conform to catalog copy.)

In-depth examination of British drama from the arrival of Ibsen's A Doll's House on the British stage (and Shaw's publication of his influential treatise The Quintessence of Ibsenism), both laying to rest for serious artists the moralistic, bourgeois theater of the late 19th century. Includes study of various dramatic movements in Britain—including realism, absurdism, kitchen-sink naturalism, surrealism, epic theater, expressionism.

Description of the Expected Learning Outcomes: Describe outcomes using the following format: "Students will be able to: 1), 2), etc."

Students will be able to:

- 1) apply and analyze content knowledge appropriate to Modern British Drama.
- 2) apply critical reading strategies to a variety of texts, which may include written, oral, or visual works, to analyze language and texts using appropriate critical, theoretical, rhetorical, and disciplinary methodologies.
- 3) produce a variety of written texts that—in a process that includes revision based on feedback from peers and instructors—analyze language, ideas, and forms and creatively engage with the writing traditions of our various disciplines.
- 4) employ primary and, where suitable, secondary sources using appropriate disciplinary methodologies

Assessment Strategies: A description of the assessment strategies (e.g., portfolios, examinations, performances, pre-and post-tests, conferences with students, student papers) which will be used by the instructor to determine the extent to which students have achieved the learning outcomes noted above.

Assessment Outcomes
quizzes: outcomes #1, 2
informal writing assignments: 1, 2, 3 formal writing assignment (argumentative essay/research paper): 1, 2, 3, 4
midterms: 1, 3
final or final/essay exams: 1, 3
annotated bibliography 1, 2, 3, 4
paper proposal 1, 2, 3, 4
portfolio project 1, 2, 3

Is this course required in a degree program (major, minor, graduate degree, certificate?)

No

Does the proposed change or addition cause a significant increase in the use of College or University resources (lab room, computer)?

No

Will there be any departments affected by this proposed course?

No

I/we as the author(s) of this course proposal agree to provide a new or updated accessibility checklist to the Dean's office prior to the semester when this course is taught utilizing the changes proposed here.

I/we agree

University Learning Goals

Undergraduate Learning Goals:

Competence in the disciplines
Knowledge of human cultures and the physical and natural world
Integrative learning
Intellectual and practical skills

Is this course required as part of a teaching credential program, a single subject, or multiple subject waiver program (e.g., Liberal Studies, Biology) or other school personnel preparation program (e.g., School of Nursing)?

No

GE Course and GE Goal(s)

Is this a General Education (GE) course or is it being considered for GE?

Yes

In which GE area(s) does this apply?

Writing Intensive

Which GE objective(s) does this course satisfy?

Develop an acquaintance and understanding of cultures and major dynamic social institutions which affect one's life.
Read, write, and understand relatively complex and sophisticated English prose.
Find and use common information resources, engage in specialized library research, use computers and seek out appropriate expert opinion and advice.
Possess a significant and useful understanding of peoples from a diversity of cultures and backgrounds, including women and ethnic and other minority groups who have been the objects of prejudice and adverse discrimination within our society.
Construct a non-fallacious verbal argument, recognize fallacious arguments, and follow the verbal arguments of others.

Attach Course Syllabus with Detailed Outline of Weekly Topics:

Syllabi must include: GE area outcomes listed verbatim; catalog description of the course; prerequisites, if any; student learning objectives; assignments; texts; reading lists; materials; grading system; exams and other methods of evaluation.

Will more than one section of this course be offered?

No

General Education Details - Writing Intensive

Section 1.

Indicate how the course meets the following criteria for Writing Intensive. Relate the statement to the course syllabus and outline. Be as succinct as possible. Courses must comply with the general criteria for Writing Intensive courses:

The course must build on the basic skills and knowledge acquired by students in their foundation courses in General Education or the major.

This course builds on GE area C2 and required lower-division courses in the major (ENGL 40A, 40B, 50A, 50B, 65) that analyze and compare relations between literature, cultural production, history, and cultural change.

The course must expand students' knowledge by examining complex issues.

This course examines the complex nature of British drama from 1889 to the present, focusing on the variety of ways (mostly) 20th-century British dramatic literature can be analyzed and situated in cultural context; theories about the connections between 20th-century British dramatic literature, culture, and history; and knowledge of the specific texts and authors related to the traditions of British drama.

The course must expand students' abilities to reason logically and to write clearly in prose.

The assignments listed below require students to advance an organized, detailed, and logical argument that advances a position about literary texts, their role in culture, and their relation to history. Students will do so by engaging with a variety of complex and sophisticated texts from this field.

Students must be required to write not less than 5,000 words of clear and logical prose (not to include simple narrative or diary writing).

directed writing assignments/weekly response papers (8 assignments, approx 400 words each) formal writing assignment (argumentative essay/research paper) (1800 words) draft of formal writing assignment and peer review (min. 750 words)
 midterm (500 words)
 final/essay exam (500 words)
 annotated bibliography (1,000 words)
 paper proposal
 portfolio creative project & response (2,000 words)

Instructors must work actively with students to sharpen analytical abilities and to improve their writing styles.

The attached syllabus indicates opportunities for drafting, feedback, and revision of a variety of writing assignments (response papers, exams, formal paper proposal/draft).

Writing assignments must be spread over the entire semester (with at least 3,000 of the 5,000 words due before the last two weeks of instruction).

The attached syllabus indicates due dates for writing assignments over the course of the semester; a minimum of 3000 words are due before the last two weeks of instruction.

Instructors must provide timely responses and evaluation of each writing assignment, and evaluations and comments must not only be about the subject matter content but also about writing skills.

The attached syllabus indicates due dates for writing assignments over the course of the semester; the weekly response papers, the midterm exam, the paper proposal & bibliography, and the draft of the larger paper all allow the instructor the opportunity to work with student ideas and prose.

Section 2.

WRITING INTENSIVE

Recognizing the value of writing in all disciplines, as a tool in learning as well as conveying knowledge, the Academic Senate mandated that the teaching of writing be an all university responsibility. To that end, the Senate recommended that three units of Writing Intensive be a graduation requirement.

The chief aim of Writing Intensive is to promote students' ability to write logically and clearly, using standard written English, in their major discipline or in a discipline outside their major.

Course Requirement

The Writing Intensive requirement can be satisfied in one of three ways: a) Departments/programs may specify that the Writing Intensive requirement must be met in the major; b) In cases where the requirement is not specified as required in the major, the requirement must be satisfied by taking an Writing Intensive course in the General Education program, or c) student's choice. Departments/programs wishing to have courses approved as Writing Intensive must submit the course syllabus to the General Education Review Committee which shall review and approve the course for listing as Writing Intensive. (General Education courses must also be approved for G.E. listing in the normal way.)

Criteria

Courses designated as Writing Intensive build on the basic skills and knowledge acquired by students in their foundation courses in General Education or the major. These courses are to expand students' knowledge by examining complex issues and they are to advance students' abilities to reason logically and to write clearly in prose.

The English Composition and Critical Thinking courses and the Writing Proficiency Examination are prerequisites to all Writing Intensive courses. Some Writing Intensive courses listed in the General Education program may explore more specialized topics and may thus require prerequisites, but most are to be courses of a broader nature and generally require no formal preparation in the discipline offering the course. Writing Intensive courses not in the General Education Program may also have prerequisites, but they should focus on the broad and general rather than the more technical areas of a discipline.

Students are required to write not less than 5,000 words (20 typed, double-spaced pages) of clear and logical prose in Writing Intensive classes. (Once a course is approved for Writing Intensive, all students enrolled in the class, whether they are taking it to fulfill their Writing Intensive requirement or not, must write no less than 5,000 words in order to receive a passing grade.)

An important aspect of the task of instructors is working actively with students to sharpen their analytical abilities and to improve their writing styles. Simple narrative and diary-type writing will not fulfill the requirement. Writing assignments must be analytical in nature, discipline specific and spread out over the entire semester. (At least a total of 3,000 words of writing assignments must be due before the last two weeks of instruction.) Instructors must provide timely responses and evaluations of each writing assignment. Evaluations and comments must only be about the subject matter content but also address the writing skills. Additionally, evaluations and comments must be given to the students early enough to be reviewed before their next formal writing assignment is due.

Recommendations for Implementation

Although Writing Intensive courses have a 5,000 word requirement, this word requirement can be met by both formal and informal writing assignments. Instructors might require 10 pages each of formal and informal assignments (journals, responses to reading, for example). Yet all should require analysis in order to promote learning as well as improved writing skills.

Although the number of writing assignments depends upon the discipline and nature of the course, a study conducted by the Writing Intensive Committee in Spring 1988 discovered that those students who had been assigned a number of shorter assignments (usually four 5 page ones) reported that their writing had improved as a result, in part, of more frequent feedback. Those with only two long assignments reported that they did not feel the assignments had helped them improve their writing.

Reviewer Comments:

Robin Fisher (rfisher) (Mon, 30 Sep 2019 22:32:02 GMT):Rollback: Dear David, Per Dr. Buckman, note that this proposal still shows it as a GE course and needs to be changed to "no" status. Also please edit ELOs, using the format "Students will be able to," varying action verbs; Check that the syllabus has the ELOs that match the proposal, the catalog description, and a grading breakdown. Let me know if you have questions. Thank you, Robin Fisher

Robin Fisher (rfisher) (Mon, 30 Sep 2019 22:36:39 GMT):Dear David, Please disregard my comment about the GE status—I see that it only refers to the Writing Intensive requirement, and not to Area C. Thank you, Robin Fisher
