Bachelor of Arts

Briefly describe the program proposal (new or change) and provide a justification:

Moving two units of Upper Division Elective Units to two 1 unit required courses that will be offered to students at the beginning and end of their time as Sociology majors. This will decrease Soc Upper Division elective units from 17 to 15, which means the total units for the major will remain at 43 units, and the Upper Division units will remain at 37 units.

One of the 1 unit courses is an introduction to the major course, which students will take as soon as they declare the major. The course is presently being added, and it would reflect ideas that are considered High Impact Practices for students, connecting them to other students, the department and the university in general. It would introduce students to expectations in the department, key concepts and practices they will need to understand, how and where to locate information and resources about the university and the department, common technology that is used in both the university and the department, key concepts in the discipline, as well as prepare them to think about their learning pathways while at the university and beyond. Many of the assignments within the course will be about connecting them to the university, the department and the resources that will help them to be successful. They will also engage key ideas that many of our students struggle with that would help them to be successful in the discipline, such as the importance of social research and where it exists in the society. One assignment would include reflecting on their own present abilities and knowledge in relation the department learning outcomes, with the intention of introducing them to the goals at the beginning, and more important, to give them an understanding of what we are hoping for them to develop while in the program.

There would be two sections of the course, 2a for first time freshmen students, 2b for all other students new to the major, including new transfer students and students changing or declaring Sociology as the major. The intention for dividing these into two different sections are first time freshman students have a different cultural experience than other students, so we thought it best to connect them to other students undergoing their same experiences. We are assigning these classes both to lower division designation for alignment. If we divide this by upper division/lower division, since we have designated Soc 2a for first year students only, Soc 2b would include 2nd year students who then would be directed to take 2a, which would go against the intent of setting a section for first year students. Along with it, we are moving units from Upper Division requirement, so to keep in alignment for what students complete (transfer and first year students), we thought it best to keep this in alignment.

We are separating First Year Students from all other students in alignment with the high impact practice of offering FYS for students, but with a major emphasis. First year native students often have a distinct experience as they enter into a university, learning to be a college student, while also learning how to be a this specific university. While much of the class material we cover is the same, there are some distinctions, including some different readings specific to first year native students. We also would like to give first year students to opportunity to learn what it means to be a college student in an open conversation among students in a similar situation. We have identified throughout the syllabi potentially different engagements with assignments, which is why the learning outcomes are different. We also recognize that many of the discussions concerning topics, issues, readings, etc. will likely be focused on different perspective for first-year students, and want to give them that opportunity.

Administratively, we thought it better to create different sections, as it would likely be more difficult to direct students to take as there would be no explicit place to clearly identify which section students should enroll in each semester. Having clearly articulated different classes in the catalog would be clearer for students, and advisors when enrolling.

The second 1 unit class will be a culminating course offered to students 1 semester prior to graduating, so as to allow them at least a semester to add any elements or resources to their course load prior to graduating. This course would also draw on key elements of the High Impact Practice of a culminating course, including having students reflect on and display their success in the department learning outcomes by creating an eportfolio. Students will evaluate the learning pathways they have undertaken and evaluate their career trajectory, engaging the tools to prepare them for after graduation.

The two courses have been created in conjunction with one another to help lead students through the program and give them access to information and resources to help them be successful. The creation of these two courses is intended to better prepare students to be successful while at CSUS, with the intention to help them develop a learning pathway that will connect to their future career goals.

The structure of these courses will also allow us, by creating eportfolios for students, to regularly assess our program. To accomplish this, we are presently evaluating our department curriculum map to clarify where students are introduced to each of the learning outcomes, and which assignments in courses assess those outcomes.

There are also a couple of small changes that will be made to the program to update the program. Added Soc 129 to elective list. Class is almost completed going through the process of being added to the curriculum.

Note about general independent study type courses changed as Soc 198 does not show up in our list of general classes, so it needed to be added. Note at bottom needs to be changed so it is included (note about Soc 195 and 199). This will allow the information in our program description to be in alignment with the information that already exists in the course description for Soc 198.

Updated our catalog description about our advanced studies requirement. It still identified them as an 'institutions' requirement, which was changed and renamed Advanced Studies several years ago.

Objectives of the degree program:

I. Competency in the Discipline:

1. Identify key concepts and ideas in the discipline of sociology and describe its breadth of knowledge in the field in contributing to our understanding of social reality. Such areas include:

- i. History and context
- ii. Difference and/or similarity to other social sciences

They will be able to:

i. Design a research study to analyze a social experience or problem, using evidence and quantitative and qualitative research methods from sociology.

ii. Apply sociological theory to a social experience.

iii. Apply a sociological imagination to a social experience to understand and/or explain it

University Learning Goals

Undergraduate Learning Goals:

Competence in the disciplines Knowledge of human cultures and the physical and natural world Integrative learning Personal and social responsibility Intellectual and practical skills Will this program be required as part of a teaching credential program, a single subject, or multiple subject waiver program (e.g., Liberal Studies, Biology) or other school personnel preparation program (e.g., School of Nursing)? No

Do these changes impact the Smart Planner roadmap?

Yes

Please attach the Smart Planner roadmap:

Sociology Roadmap 2020.pdf

Briefly describe the change:

Added 1 unit Soc 2a/b course to first semester requirement. Added 1 unit Soc 191 to second to last semester requirement. Deleted 1 Soc UD elective requirement in 2nd to last semester (replaced with Soc 191). Adjusted elective units to equal 120 units total. Added note about Soc 198 to be included with Soc 195 and 199 list.

Catalog Description:

Units required for Major: 43 Total units required for BA: 120

Program Description

The sociology major and minor have few specific requirements, allowing the student flexibility in selecting courses in the various subject areas covered in the program. The areas covered are:

- 1. social theory and methods of inquiry;
- 2. advanced studies, such as family, immigration, education, politics, religion, sport and environment;
- 3. thematic areas of crime and deviance, diversity and inequality, socialization and interaction, globalization, and social change.

Admission Requirements: Course prerequisites and other criteria for admission of students to the degree major program, and for their continuation in it.

<sup>2</sup> Department recommends SOC Elective that meets the WI Graduation Requirement; see Program Requirements table above. Note: SOC courses that meet the WI Graduation Requirement are displayed with a pencil icon. <sup>3</sup> If not satisfied before entering Sacramento State, it may be satisfied in General Education Area C2 (Humanities). 'C- or better required.' The alternative methods for satisfying the Foreign Language Proficiency Requirement are described here: https://www.csus.edu/college/arts-letters/world-languages-literatures/foreign-language-requirement.html (https://www.csus.edu/college/arts-letters/world-languages-literatures/foreign-language-requirement.html)

Fiscal Impact to Change an Existing Program

Indicate programmatic or fiscal impact which this change will have on other academic units' programs, and describe the consultation that has occurred with affected units:

No fiscal impact. We are simply designing two new courses

Provide a fiscal analysis of the proposed changes:

No impact as no new resources will be needed. Chair will teach the courses. They will be online, so classrooms are not needed.

How will the above changes be accommodated within the department/College existing fiscal resources?

They fit within the regular practices of the department.

Will the proposed changes require additional resources?

No

What additional space, equipment, operating expenses, library, computer, or media resources, clerical/technical support, or other resources will be needed?

No because classes will be taught online.

Estimate the cost and indicate how these resource needs will be accommodated:
