Justification for course proposal:

This course replaces and clarifies the Deaf 165: Special Topics in Deaf Studies offerings by establishing Technology and The Deaf Community as a separate and distinct course offering which students may take for credit, either as a required course or in substitution for transferred or waived coursework. Whereas in the past, these offerings were offered under a single heading, Deaf 165, these courses are now presented as standalone choices.

This course focuses specifically on how technology is and can be used in the Deaf community.

Course Description: (Not to exceed 80 words and language should conform to catalog copy.)

This course will focus on technology for communication and sound access and its use within the Deaf Community. The history of this technology and its development will be examined for what makes it useful and acceptable to Deaf/HOH individuals. This overview will include analysis of the processes of development and marketing of these devices. The hidden burden of device development and usage will be examined using need and usability analysis.
