

Over 25 years, CAPCR has collaborated or partnered with key institutions and organizations: U.S. State Department and Department of Education, the U.S. Institute of Peace, USAID, JAMS Foundation, World Bank, African Union Commission, California Wellness Foundation, Nigerian Institute of Advanced Legal Studies-Lagos, University of Ibadan- Nigeria, Nigerian Human Rights Commission, University of Ghana-Legon, Ghana Bar Association, Judiciary and Ministry of Justice, the Ghana Association of Certified Mediators and Arbitrators, Institute of Peace & Conflict Resolution-Nigeria, Federation of Women Lawyers (FIDA)-Kenya and Ethiopia, National University of Rwanda-Butare, The Gambia Judiciary, Addis Ababa University-Ethiopia, University of Liberia-Monrovia, University of Dakar-Senegal, African Center for Constructive Resolution of Disputes (ACCORD)-South Africa, Kaiser Foundation-Sacramento, among others.

"Peace is one of the most critical ingredients that is needed in all our efforts to make Africa successful. It is a crying shame that many countries have more violence and instability after independence, than during the struggles of wars that brought their independence."

The next generation of African peace leaders will have to understand that the degradation of the environment poses a threat to our very existence; they must pay strict attention."

Ghana President Nana Akufo Addo

LEVELS OF SUPPORTS AND BENEFITS

Dear Prospective Donors and Supporters,

As we look back on 2020 with the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic and racial justice protests in the US, we thank you for your enduring and potential friendship and support for the Center for African Peace & Conflict Resolution and Africa Peace Fellows (APF) initiative at California State University, Sacramento.

The 2020 challenges may have delayed the launching of the first cohort of the APF, but the project is not derailed. Of course, events of 2020 have reinforced the critical need for building the next generation of peace leaders in Africa, equipped with the critical skills to mitigate vulnerabilities and promote prosperity.

With your support and generosity, we remain hopeful of achieving the USD $25M Endowment fund for the APF. The booklet provides relevant information about the APF, including its brief history, the anticipated impacts, and ways you can contribute.

With peace and gratitude!

PROF. ERNEST UWAZIE
Executive Director

Leading the APF initiative are distinguished and accomplished scholars, researchers, diplomats, policy makers, entrepreneurs, and experienced practitioners and system designers in peace and conflict resolution, peace and security, and foreign affairs.

The APF International Board for fund development, policy and budget oversight, and International Steering Committee for curriculum development and training represent people with experience in academia, African Union, international organizations, business, government leadership, and nongovernmental organizations in/from Africa, Europe, and U.S.

To date, over 30,000 people have participated from 6 continents and over 40 countries in the CAPCR training programs, including the annual International Africa & Diaspora Conference and Peace Awards at California State University, Sacramento.

CONSIDER SUPPORTING OUR EFFORTS

In 2018 the Africa Peace Fellows Endowment was established with funding from Fatai Yusufu of FAYUS INC., with the goal of USD $25M. Since then, the APF Endowment has become part of the College of Health and Human Services' funding priorities for the On the Rise: The Campaign for Sacramento State - (www.csus.edu/campaign).

Every dollar of support will benefit the program by offsetting the cost of travel, support and training staff, technology, and other related participants costs.

By considering becoming a supporter of the program, your contribution will bring us one step closer to our goal of a stable endowment of $25 million; to educate and serve our fellow Africans towards building a greater Africa.
