IDENTITY, CONFLICT, AND THE PURSUIT OF PEACE: PERSPECTIVES ON THE ETHIOPIAN EXPERIENCE

Identities play prominent role in many recent episodes of conflict in Africa. A nation of rich history and diversity (ethnic, religious, regional, ideological, etc.), the Ethiopian experience could highlight a range of important issues witnessed across the African continent and beyond in the contemporary world. In this lecture Dr. Ogato will discuss the role of identity, most especially ethnic identity on the one hand and the role played by diverse 'stakeholders' ranging from locally organized groups to national, regional to global actors and institutions on the other in recent conflicts in Ethiopia. Dr. Ogato's lecture will also discuss ongoing efforts to promote dialogue and reconciliation for equitable, inclusive and sustainable peace.
