About Full Circle Project

Mission
The Full Circle Project facilitates strong academic support, intentionally planned leadership development, career readiness, and co-curricular service-learning to engage Asian Pacific Islander Desi American (APIDA) students through campus and community-based activities.

Vision
Cultivating the strengths of the campus and community to promote and develop APIDA identity empowerment, academic resilience, community service, and holistic well-being to ensure student success at Sacramento State and beyond.

Values
- Student Success
- Self-Exploration and Identity Formation—personal, professional, career
- Ethnic Studies and Asian American Studies

• Campus and Community Engagement
• Diversity, Inclusion, Anti-racism

Goals for Student Success

• Academic support: strengthen student academic planning to navigate their academic, personal, and career goals
• Identity Development: increase students’ self-awareness of their personal history and identity
• Leadership: Increase students’ understanding of leadership, ability to lead others, advocate for social needs and take initiative
• Campus and Community Engagement: Increase student involvement on campus or in the community for social change
• Sense of belonging: Increase student’s sense of belonging and connection on campus

The guiding principles of this program are consistent with the best practices by successful undergraduate retention and student engagement models at Sacramento State found in the Educational Opportunity Program (EOP), College Migrant Assistance Program (CAMP), and the Cooper-Woodson Enhancement Program (CWC).
