

To our Studio Art students working from home:

First, let us say we miss being on campus with you and seeing your development in the studios. We hope you and your families are well, and your safety is our number one priority. Not just on campus in the shops, and not just through this current Covid-19 pandemic, but also at home as you continue to work through this semester. We would like to take this time to remind you to work safely as you do so. Please remember to employ the same safety strategies you have learned on campus.

- Continue to use your proper PPE when necessary.
- Work clean, and address any clutter that could be a trip hazard or a fire hazard when you are done.
- Keep youngsters away from your materials.
- Be responsible with any hazardous materials you may use; label and store them safely.
- Be sure to use enough ventilation when using solvent or aerosols. Outside is best, if possible.
- If you accumulate used paint solvents, store them in a safe container. If needed, you can bring them to campus for disposal once we are back in session.

If you have questions or concerns about art safety while you continue to work at home, please feel comfortable in contacting us for some advice.

Thanks, and stay safe,
