

Nammour Symposium 2019

Guest Speaker Panel
Hinde Auditorium, University Union
Wednesday, April 3rd, 1:00-4:00

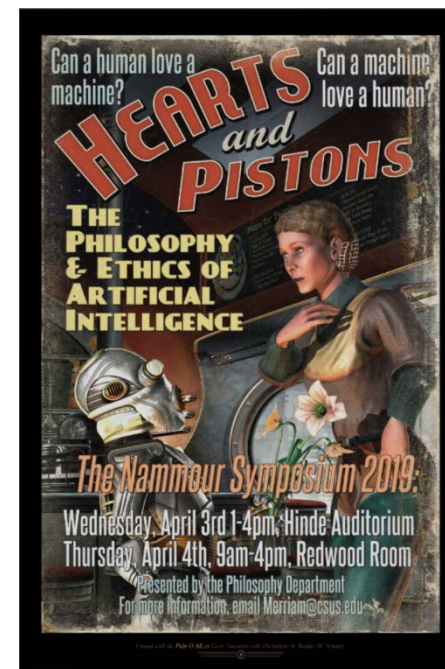

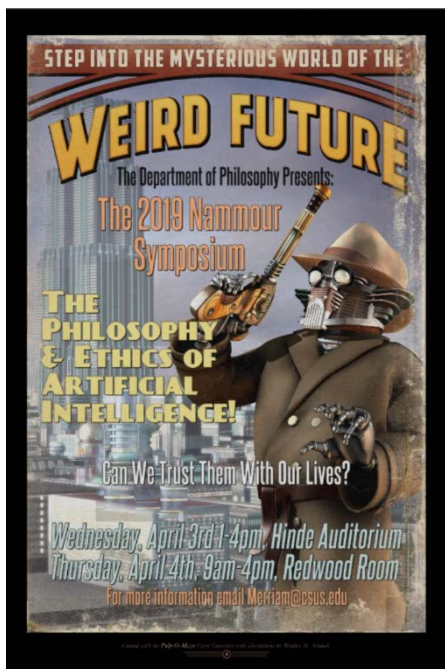

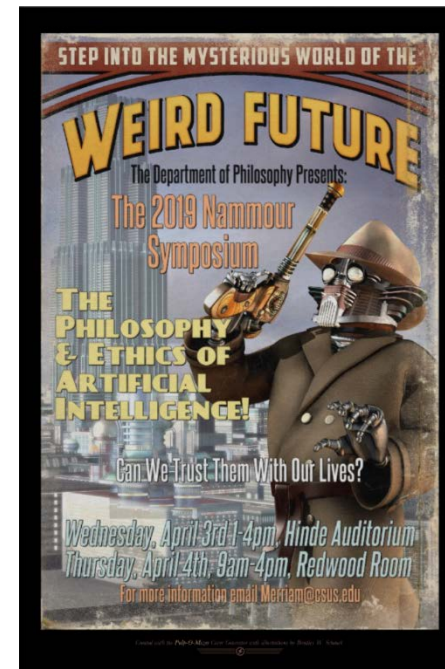

1:00-2:00

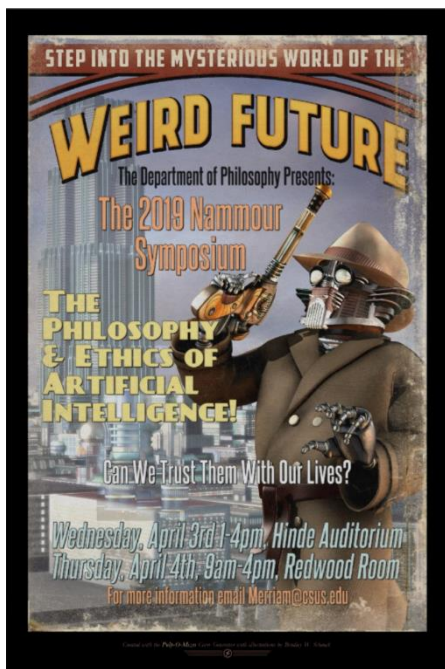

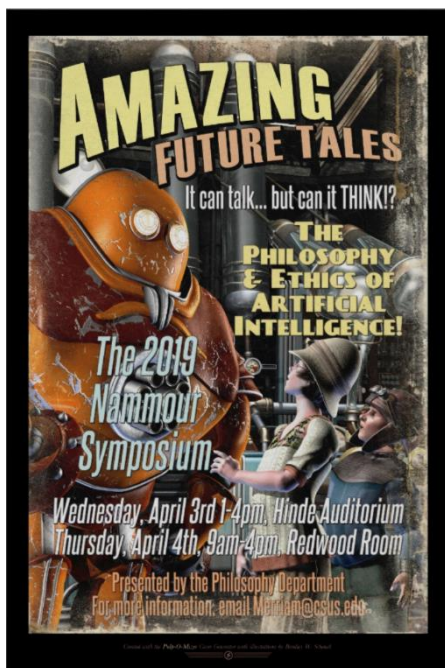

V. Scott Gordon, Artificial Intelligence—Machines that Learn
Professor of Computer Science
California State University, Sacramento

2:00-3:00 Hanti Lin, Machine Learning and Epistemology:
Pursuit of Platonic Tethering to the Truth
Assistant Professor of Philosophy
University of California, Davis

3:00-4:00 Tomas A. Blackson, Prohibitions in Machine Ethics
Associate Professor of Philosophy
Arizona State University

Sponsored by the Philosophy Department, Center for Professional and Practical Ethics, and the College of Arts and Letters

Nammour Symposium 2019

Faculty Panel

Redwood Room, University Union
Thursday, April 4th, 9:00am-12:00pm

Come and join us for panel of our own professors:

9:00-10:00 am

Matt McCormick, Professor of Philosophy
"Machine Minds: A Plan for Conscious AI"

10:00-11:00 am

Garret Merriam, Assistant Professor of Philosophy
"Algorithms of the Heart: The Peril and Promise of Artificial Emotional Intelligence"

11:00-12:00 am

Russell DiSilvestro, Chair and Professor of Philosophy
"How AI May Help Us Die: A Hopeful Message About Artificial Intelligence, Dying with Dignity, and Fairness"

Sponsored by the Philosophy Department, Center for Professional and Practical Ethics, and the College of Arts and Letters

