
CRRC UPDATE!

The College of Education's Student Research Review Committee (CRRC) is transitioning to Cayuse IRB!

Beginning Fall 2023, the CRRC's Student Human Subjects Research application submission and review process of Exempt research will use the Cayuse Platform (pronounced kai-oos). Cayuse was first purchased in 2016 to modernize the Institutional Review Board's process. This transition completes the centralization of the IRB submission and review process across campus.

Highlights

- No more confusion about IRB vs. CRRC submission. Student research will be submitted in Cayuse and sent to the CRRC for review.
- Non-Exempt research will transfer from CRRC to IRB without further action or duplication from students.
- Increased transparency, efficiency, and collaboration amongst research teams and reviewers.
- All faculty will have prepared profiles in Cayuse by Fall.

Prepare

- The IRB will host the College of Education Student Research Review Committee SharePoint site for student and advisor guidance, deadlines, and more. Please update your syllabi, SharePoint sites, Canvas pages, etc. to this SharePoint link:
