Did you have Covid-19 and now have persistent issues, sometimes called “Long-Hauler Covid”?

Do you have thinking changes in memory, attention, how fast you can think, and/or coming up with words?

We are studying the long-term cognitive-communication effects of Covid-19.

The study involves approximately 2 hours of testing that can be completed online or in person.

Tests will be focusing on cognitive-communication skills.

There is no fee.

This study has been approved by the CSUS Institutional Review Board.
