Working with a variety of children diagnosed with speech and language delays/disorders within the education system for the last 26 years provides current and past experiences that I directly share with graduate students. These hands on experiences are invaluable conversations for graduate students to hear regarding current trends and practices in the field since these students are primarily receiving their education from didactic full-time professionals. Having clinical instructors that are working in the field is an excellent contribution to the overall teaching experiences the CSUS CSAD graduate students receive.

Clinical supervision experiences with the past 5 years 2013-2018

I have been a Clinical Instructor for the Speech III clinic rotation at the Maryjane Reese, Speech and Hearing Clinic.
