

CSUS Economics Major Student Commitment

- Make my economics coursework a priority in my life.
- Only schedule classes at times and days that I know will fit into my other commitments for the entirety of the semester.
- Set aside sufficient hours each week to study for each of my economics courses. According to the University's Credit Hour Policy, the expectation is that for a 3-unit course, you are expected to spend up to 9 hours weekly in activities related to that course.
- Attend all lectures in my economics courses and come to my classes prepared and ready to participate in class activities.
- Submit all assignments on time.
- Communicate with my professor when needed by visiting office hours and sending and responding to emails promptly.
- Periodically remind myself of the content of my course syllabi as well as the major requirements and university graduation requirements.
- Schedule advising appointments once a year with an economics advisor.
- Treat my fellow classmates as well as the faculty and staff with respect at all times.
