Why Add a Gerontology Minor?

Power Up Your Major

Understanding aging strengthens almost any degree. Health professionals care for older patients. Businesses market to older consumers. Engineers design for age-related changes. Artists create and perform for older audiences and rely on older volunteers. Prepare to lead and succeed in a rapidly aging society.

Online Classes That Move You Forward

Make progress toward graduation while gaining specialized expertise. Both the Minor in Gerontology and the Minor in Leadership in Aging and Health for Black Honors College Scholars can be completed online and include classes that satisfy lower- and upper-division General Education requirements.

Real-World Experience

Get hands-on experience, build your resume, and make professional connections. An internship is optional for the Minor in Gerontology and required for the Minor in Leadership in Aging and Health.

Strengthen Your Grad School Application

Demonstrate knowledge of aging and a commitment to serving older adults, qualities many nursing, social work, public health, and other graduate programs value.

Scholarships

Thanks to generous donors, Sac State offers several scholarships specifically for students in the Gerontology major and minors.

Knowledge for Life, Not Just a Career

Gain practical knowledge and skills you can use in your own life. Understanding the aging process and available programs can help you and your loved ones maintain health and well-being.
