Catalog Description: Designed to improve reading proficiency, will give students the opportunity to develop high-intermediate to advanced-level competency in Spanish. They will acquire the ability to understand main ideas and facts in description and narration of news items, personal correspondence, technical material written for general readers, simple short stories; follow essential points in ideas of special interest or knowledge. Students will demonstrate general comprehension of a text and will be able to answer content questions in English. Note: Students must take the SPAN 7 Diagnostic Exam the first day of class. Meets Foreign Language Graduation Proficiency Requirement. Prerequisite: SPAN 1B or SPAN 1C or two years of high school Spanish. Graded: Graded Student. Units: 3.0.

Expanded Course Description: The main goal of the authors of both textbooks is to teach students how to read in Spanish. The Easy Spanish Reader is described in the preface as a “multilevel Spanish reader that provides an introduction to the culture, history and literature of regions of the Spanish-speaking world as well as extensive reading practice in Spanish.” Section one of this book describes the personal lives of Enrique and María, their high school, families, backgrounds, and interests. Section two contains selections that cover aspects of Mexican history, and section three provides an adaptation of the famous work of Spanish literature, Lazarillo de Tormes. The textbook, Spanish for Reading and Translation, contains a variety of reading selections of increasing difficulty of authentic materials taken from Hispanic publications: newspapers, magazines and professional journals. The authors indicate in the preface that as the students start reading a passage, they will need to “rely on their ability to infer meaning and draw conclusions” from what they read.

Method of Instruction: This course will be conducted in Spanish and English. Overall, while using both textbooks, students will be asked to skim passages for general impressions and information, scan for specific terms, summarize the passages in their own words, answer content questions on the text, and translate some parts of the reading selection. The course quizzes and exams will require, in addition to demonstrating knowledge of lesson vocabulary and grammar, that students answer content questions about a passage and/or provide an English translation. The proposed reading strategies, as indicated in the Preliminary lesson of Spanish for Reading and Translation, include the following:

Pre-Reading Exercises: 1) Examine the title of the passage for clues to the topic, vocabulary, and meaning, 2) Skim the passage for an overall impression of the text content, including pictures, graphs, tables, familiar words, 3) Scan the passage for specific information in order to complete the post-reading content questions.

Reading of the Text: 1) Begin reading paragraph by paragraph and underline the topic sentence in each paragraph, 2) Write down the main ideas of the paragraph, and 3) Re-read the paragraph again, underlining unknown words, and try to infer their meaning from the content. If you are unable to guess the meaning, then look up the word or idiomatic expression in a dictionary.

Post-Reading Exercises: Answer the follow-up content questions, including any translation exercises, in order to more fully understand the text’s meaning.

Required Texts:

- 1) Easy Spanish Reader by William T. Tardy (Second Edition, McGraw-Hill, 2004). ISBN: 0-07-142806-2
