

Advising for EOP Juniors

As students approach their junior year, they transition from the “Sophomore Success” advising component of the ARISE project and begin to work with a faculty advisor in their academic major and began their path to towards their careers. The ARISE website continues to serve as an added resource for our juniors in the EOP program.

Goals

- Confirm that students are meeting their GE requirements
- Work with students to ensure that they are meeting with their major advisors
- Help students tailor their coursework and experiences (internships, research, study abroad, student organizations, etc.) to achieve their academic and professional goals. This may include helping students evaluate changing their major
- Work with students as they transition into the EOP “Grad-Bound” advising for seniors
- Provide students with career advice
- Confirm that students are meeting their GE requirements

Advising Requirements

Juniors are required to seek GE advising with one of our counselors or advising staff once per year. The students are divided and sorted by student ID number for half to come in the fall and half to come in the spring. We do this in order to accommodate the large number of juniors in the program who need advising.
